These exemplary teacher educators show in concrete detail how they are addressing our evolving understanding of literacy. This timely text written in a highly engaging style will be of value to teacher educators throughout the world. I have never read anything quite like this book. It contains explicit representations of the conceptual frames and work of distinguished literacy teacher educators at various stages in their careers, accounts that provide a strong counter narrative to the mainstream discourse in policy and education that fully embrace the uncertainties and complexities of practice. From the Forward by Susan L. Lytle, Professor Emerita of Education in the Graduate School of Education, University of Pennsylvania.

Teaching for Thinking James W. Keefe, Herbert J. Walberg, 1992. This volume represents a variety of current efforts to incorporate thought provoking methods into teaching. There are three sections. Curriculum Developments defines key curricular terms and offers a framework and general examples of teaching tactics. In this section Barbara Presseisen distinguishes thinking from other cognitive activities and shows how conation, motivation and striving and knowledge representation are being used to promote thinking. Robert Marzano discusses three domains: learning to learn, content thinking and reasoning, assignable to specific subjects and Francis Schrag describes how to promote deep thinking in the classroom. Teaching and Assessment describes new methods for teaching thinking and assessing student progress. Barak Rosenshine and Joseph Guenther describe scaffolding, temporary instructional supports and Ann Brown and Joseph Campione urge incorporation of thinking into all school programs through reciprocal teaching strategies. Charles Letteri's essay focuses on assessing students' learning strengths and weaknesses as a diagnostic tool for guiding individualized and group programs to improve classroom performance. Robert Ennis discusses several tests and techniques for measuring thinking for accountability. Concluding Perspectives synthesizes research on practical methods of teaching thinking in essays contributed by Barry Beyer, Robert Sternberg and James Keefe. Most chapters contain reading suggestions. MLH
