Library, 1914 Openness with Roots Caroline Renahan, 2014-06-30 This book considers the historical legacy and current debate concerning Education in Religion in the Republic of Ireland with specific reference to the primary school sector under Catholic denominational patronage Given Ireland's increased religious non religious and cultural diversity today it is no longer tenable that approximately ninety percent of the country's schools should remain largely under the control of one particular patronage On the one hand it is the duty of the State to provide for diverse forms of school management in order to cater for the educational needs of Irish school children On the other hand it is the business of the Catholic Church to realise its moral responsibility towards children in their schools whose parents and guardians do not wish for them to be educated in or witness celebrations of a faith tradition or set of values other than that to which they espouse The purpose of the book therefore is to consider two contrasting issues by way of contribution to the current debate arising from the complexity of Ireland's relatively unique context The first questions the appropriateness of Irish State primary schools to continue to provide for denominational religious education given the changing situation in Irish life The second enquires if it is appropriate to expect denominational schools to provide an exclusively phenomenological programme of religion without undermining their mission to educate in a given faith tradition Therein however is the kernel of the problem and one which the book explores

Biennial Report of the State Librarian, 1886 Vatican II and New Thinking about Catholic Education Sean Whittle, 2016-10-26 This volume considers the various ways in which Vatican II and its teaching on education has been received and engages with the challenges and testing times that beset faith based education in the twenty first century

The Contemporary Catholic School Terence McLaughlin, Joseph O'Keefe, 2003-10-04 This collection of essays by American and British authors discusses how the methods and issues of Catholic schooling are becoming of increasing interest to non Catholic schools due to the Catholic method of schooling being perceived as more humane
