

WHAT IS SOCIOLOGY?

Sociology is the study of the development, structure, and functioning of human society.

Sociologists investigate the structure of groups, organizations, and societies, and how people interact within these contexts.

Examples of sociology include studying the relationship between culture and society, examining social movements, or researching how communication affects human behavior.

Consciousness and the Study of Society Charles Demotte, 2020-11-06 Consciousness and the Study of Society Towards a New Perspective on Sociology introduces students to the fundamentals of sociology while also emphasizing the idea that perceptions based on one's level of consciousness shape the world in which we live The text is organized into five distinct sections The chapters in Unit 1 discuss the theoretical analytical and methodological groundwork for the study of sociology including a brief consideration of the human constitution Unit 2 examines the basic ideas that underscore sociology including culture society socialization and how we make sense of everyday life In Unit 3 students learn about issues of social identity that can perpetuate social differentiations and at times conflict between groups These chapters cover social stratification and class race ethnicity gender deviance and social control and sexuality Unit 4 investigates the six primary social structures that provide the foundation of any society family politics economics religion education and health and medicine The final unit looks to the future proposing that upheavals in our current society will lead to an evolution of our society and a new cycle of human experience Compelling comprehensive and designed to help students better understand themselves and the world around them Consciousness and the Study of Society is an excellent textbook for foundational courses in sociology      An Introduction to the Study of Society Albion Small, George Vincent, 1982-06-01      Community Robert Morrison MacIver, 1924      D, Society. E, Georgraphy. 1912 William Swan Sonnenschein, 1912      Circular of Information University of Chicago, 1895      The Scientific Study of Society Max Steuer, 2013-03-09 Tradition recognises five social sciences anthropology economics social psychology sociology and political science But who knows what is going on in all five disciplines Social scientists from one discipline often know little or nothing about the progress made by social scientists from another discipline working on essentially the same social problem Sometimes even of a neighbouring discipline is terra incognita the methodology The problem becomes worse when we widen the remit to natural scientists and engineers I have found little evidence myself that they see themselves as standing on the other side of an unbridgeable gulf between two cultures They observe the intellectual excesses of those few newage social scientists who see themselves fighting a science war but the ignorance of these innumerate critics is so apparent in their grossly naive attacks on natural science that they are not taken seriously However although natural scientists appreciate that most social science is genuine science they seldom know much about how and why it is done as it is This can lead to serious inefficiencies in areas in which the traditional frontiers between social and natural science are melting away An example is the frontier between the economics of imperfect competition and evolutionary biology Reversing the usual bias the evolutionary biologists commonly know little mathematics and hence find the game theory literature hard to read with the result that they often spend their time re inventing the wheel
