SQUARING THE CIRCLE

The urban metamorphosis for a new center of Barcelona

Arnau Pascual

27.08.2015

This paper is the result of a specific chronological analysis on the politic, social and economic process of an urban project. The meaning of public and collective are questioned when a strategic plan conceives a big scale park as centrality merging the pre-established city and the innovative techno-economic district. The resolution of the recent competition demands to convert Plaça de les Glòries into the reference and visible image of the new concepts of space and economy.

Comparison of the original Cerdà Plan with colored streets and the abstract grid with the superposition of the same streets and the square location.⁴

"Plaça de les Glòries Catalanes" appeared for the first time as a square in 1859 in the Cerdà Plan for the Eixample of Barcelona, a competition for the expansion of the city which was considered a pioneer project on the evolution of modern urban planning. It aspired to design a city through a square block grid, wide streets with integrated services networks (water, sewage system and gas) and green spaces; to give total priority to the citizens against the unhealthy situation inside the old city walls.

In this case, the square was conceived as the essential core of the urban network, a big rectangular hole of 9 hectares, rotated 30 degrees at the intersection of the three main accesses of the city: Gran Via, Meridiana and Diagonal Avenue. An exception to the regular Cerdà Plan that gives an idea of the important character that has always raised this place. Moreover, its original public and political value can be proved by the fact that in 1905, it was proposed to move the city hall and some cultural facilities into the actual location.

Squaring The Urban Circle:

The Urban Archetypes of Jane Jacobs and Ebenezer Howard Abraham Akkerman, 2020-01-09 Ebenezer Howard an Englishman and Jane Jacobs a naturalized Canadian personify the twentieth century's opposing outlooks on cities Howard had envisaged small towns newly built from scratch fashioned on single family homes with small gardens Jacobs embraced existing inner city neighbourhoods emphasizing the verve of the living street From Howard's idea the American Dream of garden suburbs had emerged yet his conceptualization of a modern city received criticism for being uniform and alienated from the rest of the city Similarly at the turn of the new century Jacobs inner city neighbourhoods came to be recognized as the result of commodification vacillating between poverty and newly discovered hubs of urban authenticity Presenting Howard and Jacobs within a psychocultural context The Urban Archetypes of Jane Jacobs and Ebenezer Howard addresses our urban crisis in the recognition that city form is a gendered allegorical medium expressing femininity and masculinity within two founding features of the built environment void and volume Both founding contrasts bring tensions but also the opportunities of fusion between pairs of urban polarities human scale against superscale gait against speed and spontaneity against surveillance Jacobs and Howard in their respective attitudes have come to embrace the two ancient archetypes the Garden and the Citadel leaving it to future generations to blend their two contrarian stances

Exercises in Architecture Simon Unwin, 2022-08-01 This revised edition of Exercises in Architecture Learning to Think as an Architect is full of new content building on the success of the previous edition All the original exercises have been revised and new ones added with the format changing to allow the inclusion of more supplementary material The aim remains the same to help pre or early course architecture students begin and develop their ability to think as architects Learning to do architecture is tricky It involves awakening abilities that remain dormant in most people It is like learning language for the first time a task made more mystifying by the fact that architecture deals not in words but in places places to stand to walk to sit to hide to sleep to cook to eat to work to play to worship This book was written for those who want to be architects It suggests a basis for early experiences in a school of architecture but it could also be used in secondary schools and colleges or as self directed preparation for students in the months before entering professional education Exercises in Architecture builds on and supplements the methodology for architectural analysis presented in the author's previous book Analysing Architecture the Universal Language of Place Making fifth edition 2021 and demonstrated in his Twenty Five Buildings Every Architect Should Understand Routledge 2015 Together the three books deal with the three aspects of learning any creative discipline 1 Analysing Architecture provides a methodology for analysis that develops an understanding of the way architecture works 2 Twenty Five Buildings explores and extends that methodology through analysis of examples as case studies and 3 Exercises in Architecture offers a way of expanding understanding and developing fluency by following a range of rudimentary and more sophisticated exercises Those who wish to become professional architects wherever in the world they might be must make a conscious effort to learn the universal language of architecture as place making to explore its powers and how they might be used The exercises in this book are designed to help
