Szabo,2009-11-02 While it can be traced to the 1700s the term thanatology has gained traction in recent decades to refer to the study of death Because of the breadth of the published material and the challenges of discovery in large bibliographic databases and catalogs finding and identifying monographic material on death dying grief and bereavement can be extremely challenging Although there have been several bibliographical resources published on thanatology those titles were incomplete limited in scope or leaned heavily toward one area of the field In Death and Dying An Annotated Bibliography of the Thanatological Literature John F Szabo provides more than 2 200 citations of monographs on the science and study of death and dying Among the areas this volume addresses are the psychological philosophical and attitudinal aspects coping and dealing with the burdens of

Representations of Childhood Death NA NA, 2016-04-30 Recent events such as the massacres in Dunblane and Arkansas the deaths of children in terrorist attacks civil wars and famines children born with AIDS and the many abductions and murders of children including some by children have placed childhood death firmly in the public consciousness But how do we understand what it means for a child to die This book examines the way the deaths of children have been dealt with at different times and in different media Each contributor has focused on a different way of representing the deaths of children from superstitions about malign child ghosts through mothers diaries to horror fiction and more Writing Grief Christian Riegel, 2003-09-24 Margaret Laurence's much admired Manawaka fiction The Stone Angel A Jest of God The Fire Dwellers A Bird in the House and The Diviners has achieved remarkable recognition for its compassionate portrayal of the attempt to find meaning and peace in ordinary life In Writing Grief Christian Riegel argues that the protagonists in these books achieve resolution through acts of mourning placing this fiction within the larger tradition of writing that explores the nuances and strategies of mourning Riegel's analysis alludes to sociological and literary antecedents of the study of mourning including the tradition of elegy from Derrida and Lacan to Freud van Gennep and Milton The work of mourning is necessary to move from a state of emotional paralysis to one of acceptance and active engagement Laurence's characters perform the work of mourning returning over and over again to the key issues relating to loss and as Riegel's close examination of the texts suggests are changed thereafter fundamentally and significantly As an important study of one aspect of Laurence's oeuvre Writing Grief not only illustrates how Laurence's own preoccupations with mourning are figured but also how different ways of working through grief result in renewed potential for consolation and connection and a renewed definition of self The Evolution of the British Funeral Industry in the 20th Century Brian Parsons, 2018-03-28 This book examines the shifts that have taken place in the funeral industry since 1900 focusing on the figure of the undertaker and exploring how organizational change and attempts to gain recognition as a professional service provider saw the role morph into that of funeral director On Being At Work Nancy Harding, 2013-10-28 Inspired by the work of the philosopher Judith Butler influenced by Marx's theory of alienation and intrigued by theories of death this book develops an anti methodological approach to studying working lives Distinctions are drawn between labour the tasks we do in our jobs and work self making activities that are carried out at the workplace between the less than human zombie like laborer and the working human self Nancy Harding argues that the experience of being at work is one in which the insistence on practising one's humanity always provides a counter point to organisational demands Dilemmas of Care in the Nordic Welfare State Hanne Marlene Dahl, Tine Rask Eriksen, 2018-01-18 The Nordic welfare model has become an ideal in feminist literature and in welfare state studies This has heightened scientific and political interest in the model and its key aspects including the provision and production of care as public responsibility In this engaging volume contributors from various professional disciplines including sociologists anthropologists political scientists and educationalists provide a comprehensive overview of the complex state of paid work in social care within the Nordic welfare states and of the dilemmas facing state provided care in the region They develop insights into the conditions practices and trends in the area of paid care in the social and health care sector insights that expose the dilemmas and tensions associated with paid care and care education Divided into four parts the book will greatly interest academics post graduate students and professionals concerned with the Nordic model and welfare states It will also benefit those from outside the region interested in a specific Nordic tradition of research on publicly provided care and the current dilemmas and challenges facing training in care

Researching Death, Dying and Bereavement Erica Borgstrom, Julie Ellis, Kate Woodthorpe, 2018-10-22 This book examines research on death dying and bereavement and how our approaches perceptions and expectations shapes what we can know about the end of life The contributions include personal and professional reflections and practical suggestions for conducting research in this field The volume stems from the resurgence of the international and interdisciplinary study of death in the last 20 years Within this empirical research is often viewed as sensitive but little has been written about the experience of conducting research in this area There has thus been little reflection on the opportunities and challenges faced in undertaking research as the field of death studies grows including the accommodation and recognition of cultural differences This volume seeks to in part address this gap The chapters in this book were originally published in the Mortality journal and the Death Studies journal Death, Grief and Poverty in Britain, 1870-1914 Julie-Marie Strange, 2005-07-25

With high mortality rates it has been assumed that the poor in Victorian and Edwardian Britain did not mourn their dead. Contesting this approach Julie Marie Strange studies the expression of grief among the working class demonstrating that poverty increased rather than deadened it. She illustrates the mourning practices of the working classes through chapters addressing care of the corpse, the funeral, the cemetery, commemoration and high infant mortality rates. The book draws on a broad range of sources to analyse the feelings and behaviours of the labouring poor using not only personal testimony but also fiction, journalism and official reports. It concludes that poor people did not only use spoken or written words to express their grief but also complex symbols, actions and significantly, silence. This book will be an invaluable contribution to an important and neglected area of social and cultural history.
