Sofia Casanova Spanish Poet Journalist And Author Scripta Humanistica:

Sofia Casanova (1861-1958) Ofelia Alayeto, 1992 Poet journalist of world wars and the Russian Revolution prolific novelist translator playwright respected society figure Sofia Casanova intrigued and influenced the Spanish reading public for over fifty years Sofia Casanova's unique achievements should have drawn considerable critical and scholarly notice Yet today her life and works remain unexamined or ignored It is the purpose of this book researched in Spain and Poland to reintroduce Sofia Casanova to the scholarly and general public Writing and Heritage in Contemporary Spain Stuart Davis, 2012 This volume is an innovative exploration of cultural heritage through museum studies metacriticism and literary criticism This is an innovative exploration of cultural heritage and the literary traditions that shape the contemporary literary scene in Spain Through a coalescence of museum studies metacriticism and traditional literary criticism the study interweaves discussion of museum spaces with literary analysis exploring them as agents of memorialisation and a means for preserving and conveying heritage Following introductory explorations of the development of museums and the literary canon each chapter begins with a visit to a Spanish museum establishing the framework for the subsequent discussion of critical practices and texts Case studies include examination of the palimpsest and unconscious influence of canonical cores the response to masculine traditions of poetry and art counter culture of the 1990s and the ethical concerns of postmemory writing STUART DAVIS is a Lecturer in Spanish Girton College and Newton Trust Lecturer in the Department of Spanish and Portuguese University of Cambridge Gender and Nation in the Spanish Modernist Novel Roberta Johnson, 2003 Offering a fresh revisionist analysis of Spanish fiction from 1900 to 1940 this study examines the work of both men and women writers and how they practiced differing forms of modernism As Roberta Johnson notes Spanish male novelists emphasized technical and verbal innovation in representing the contents of an individual consciousness and thus were more modernist in the usual understanding of the term Female writers on the other hand were less aesthetically innovative but engaged in a social modernism that focused on domestic issues gender roles and relations between the sexes Compared to the more conventional even reactionary ways their male counterparts treated such matters Spanish women's fiction in the first half of the twentieth century was often revolutionary The book begins by tracing the history of public discourse on gender from the 1890s through the 1930s a discourse that included the rise of feminism Each chapter then analyzes works by female and male novelists that address key issues related to gender and nationalism the concept of intrahistoria or an essential Spanish soul modernist uses of figures from the Spanish literary tradition notably Don Quixote and Don Juan biological theories of gender prevalent in the 1920s and 1930s and the growth of an organized feminist movement that coincided with the burgeoning Republican movement This is the first book dealing with this period of Spanish literature to consider women novelists such as Maria Martinez Sierra Carmen de Burgos and Concha Espina alongside canonical male novelists including Miguel de Unamuno Ramon del Valle Inclan and Pio Baroja With its contrasting conceptions of modernism Johnson's work provides a compelling new model for bridging the gender divide in the study of Spanish fiction Spanish Women's Writing 1849-1996 Catherine Davies, 2000-12-01 Traces the tradition of Spanish women's writing from the end of the Romantic period until the present day Professor Davies places the major authors within the changing political cultural and economic context of women's lives over the past century and a half with particular attention to women's accounts of female subjectivity in relation to the Spanish nation state government politics and the women's liberation movement The Feminist Encyclopedia of Spanish Literature Janet Pérez, Maureen Ihrie, 2002 Revista de estudios hispánicos University of Alabama.
