The book explains how organizations can use certain types of stories, springboard stories, to communicate new or envisioned strategies, structures, identities, goals, and values to employees, partners, and even customers. Readers will learn techniques by which they can help their organizations become more unified, responsive, and intelligent. Storytelling is a management technique championed by gurus including Peter Senge, Tom Peters, and Larry Prusak. Now Stephen Denning, an innovator in the new discipline of organizational storytelling, teaches how to use stories to address challenges fundamental to success in today's information economy. Extending Children's Special Abilities Joan Dalton, David Smith, 1986 Tool and Manufacturing Engineers Handbook: Design for Manufacturability Thomas J. Drozda, Charles Wick, Philip Mitchell, Ramon Bakerjian, John T. Benedict, Raymond F. Throughout the text, the authors illustrate various ways to teach motivational thinking, social skills, and concepts. Tasks are labeled and symbols appear in the margins of lesson plans so readers can find examples of how to teach these skills and concepts to children. Each chapter includes sample lesson plans designed to be teaching tools which will help transform the ideas discussed in the textbook. The content is presented in complete lesson plans, lesson segments, lesson and unit outlines of tasks, or descriptions of content for lessons. The lesson plans are linked to the NASPE standards and can be downloaded from the book's companion website to enable students to design lessons to meet the needs of their situations and the lesson format requirements of their programs. Overall, this is a very research-oriented text. Dr. Rovegno has translated the current research on learning, motivation, perceptions of competence, constructivism, higher-order thinking skills, social responsibility, and multicultural diversity into easy-to-understand concepts and instructional techniques. The book will reinforce and extend students' understanding of topics tested in state and national certification exams and required by state and national certification agencies and illustrate how to integrate these concepts and instructional techniques into lesson plans.

Teaching Contemporary Art With Young People Julia Marshall, Connie Stewart, Anne Thulson, 2021. This practical resource will help educators teach about current art and integrate its philosophy and methods into the K-12 classroom. The authors provide a framework that looks at art through the lens of nine themes: everyday life, work, power, earth, space, and place; self and others; change and time; inheritance; and visual culture, highlighting the conceptual aspects of art and connecting disparate forms of expression. They also provide guidelines and examples for how to use contemporary art to change the dynamics of a classroom, apply inventive, non-linear lenses to topics, broaden and update the art canon, and spur creative and critical thinking. Young people will find the selected artwork accessible and relevant to their lives, diverse and expansive, probing, serious, and funny. Challenging conventional notions of what should be considered art and how it should be created, this book offers a sampling of what is out there to inspire educators and students to explore the limitless world of new art. Book Features: Indicators and lenses that make contemporary art more familiar, accessible, understandable, and useable for teachers; Easy-to-reference descriptions and images from a variety of contemporary artists; Strategies for integrating art thinking across the curriculum; Suggestions to help teachers find contemporary art to fit their curriculum and school settings; Concrete examples of art-based projects from both art and general classrooms; Guidance for developing curriculum, including how to create guiding questions to spur student thinking.

Dialogic Readers Fiona Maine, 2015-03-24. Dialogic Readers: Children talking and thinking together about visual texts celebrates the sophisticated and dynamic discussions that primary-aged children can have as they talk together to make meaning from a variety of texts, and it highlights the potential for talk between readers as a tool for critical and creative thinking. It proposes a new dialogic theory of reading comprehension that incorporates multi-modal media and adds further weight to the argument that talk as a tool for learning should form a central part of primary classroom learning and teaching. The book explores the language of co-construction, children's critical and creative responses to text, the dialogic transaction between text and readers, the use of language as a tool for creating a social cohesion between readers. This significant work is aimed at educational lecturers, researchers, and students who want to explore an expanded notion of reading comprehension in the twenty-first century, realizing how opportunities for children thinking creatively together might transform the potential for learning in the classroom. It provides a framework for analyzing co-constructive talk with suggestions for promoting children's critical and creative thinking.
