Squatters And Settlers:

Squatters and the Roots of Mau Mau, 1905-1963 Tabitha Kanogo, 1987-09-30 This is a study of the genesis evolution adaptation and subordination of the Kikuyu squatter labourers who comprised the majority of resident labourers on settler plantations and estates in the Rift Valley Province of the White Highlands The story of the squatter presence in the White Highlands is essentially the story of the conflicts and contradictions that existed between two agrarian systems the settler plantation economy and the squatter peasant option Initially the latter developed into a viable but much resented sub system which operated within and to some extent in competition with settler agriculture This study is largely concerned with the dynamics of the squatter presence in the White Highlands and with the initiative self assertion and resilience with which they faced their subordinate position as labourers In their response to the machinations of the colonial system the squatters were neither passive nor malleable but on the contrary actively resisted coercion and subordination as they struggled to carve out a living for themselves and their families It is a firm conviction of this study that Kikuyu squatters played a crucial role in the initial build up of the events that led to the outbreak of the Mau Mau war from the introduction

Border Confluences Rosemary A. King, 2004-02-01 Writers focusing on the U S Mexico border are keen observers of cultural interaction and their work offers a key to understanding the region and its most important issues For more than 150 years novelists from both the United States and Mexico have spun stories about the borderlands in which characters react to cultural differences in the region and this has become a dominant theme in border fiction. Authors such as Helen Hunt Jackson, Carlos Fuentes, Cormac McCarthy, and Leslie Marmon Silko have not only created important literature; in so doing, they have also helped define the border. Writers who are drawn to the borderlands owe the narrative power of their work to compelling relationships between literary constructions of space and artistic expressions of cultural encounter. Rosemary King now offers a new way of understanding the conflicts these writers portray by analyzing their representations of geography and genre. Border Confluences examines how the theme of cultural difference influences the ways that writers construct narrative space and the ways their characters negotiate those spaces from domestic sphere to national territory, public school to utopia. King shows how fictional characters' various responses to cultural encounters—adapting, resisting, challenging, sympathizing—depend on the artistic rendering of spaces and places around them, and she examines the connection between writers' evocation of place and the presence of cultural interaction along the border as expressed in novels written since the mid-nineteenth century. Drawing on historical romances, Hispanic coming-of-age novels, travel narratives, and utopian literature, King offers plot summaries of such key works as Ramona, All the Pretty Horses, and Almanac of the Dead as she analyzes representations of both the spaces in which characters function and the places they inhabit relative to the border. Border Confluences is a provocative study that offers insight into the ways words and space combine and recombine over time to create representations of the borderlands as a site where places and cultures continue to generate powerful narrative. Through it, scholars and students in such disciplines as ethnic studies, sociology, and women's studies will find that novels centered on the border are not merely works of literature but also keys to understanding the region and its most important issues.

Sustainability in South Asian Cities Subhash Anand, Rituparna Bhattacharyya, Madhushree Das, Tulshi Kumar Das, Pushkar K. Pradhan, 2025-03-03. This book explores some of the common socio-economic and environmental challenges faced by the cities of South Asia, which remain highly under-researched. South Asia comprises eight nations: India, Bangladesh, Nepal, Sri Lanka, Bhutan, Maldives, Pakistan, and Afghanistan, consisting of a total population of 1.92 billion in 2022. The majority of the cities in these countries are characterized by haphazard urbanization and multi-dimensional poverty, alongside its associated ingredients: floods, water scarcity, food crises, poor sanitation, slums, and squatter settlements, and pollution, among others. This comprehensive book is contributed by interdisciplinary scholars and includes 25 case studies. The volume brings these socio-economic and environmental challenges to the fore for a better and more nuanced understanding. The book helps policymakers to mitigate the challenges and build sustainable cities. South Asia is perhaps one of the most populous areas on the planet, with nearly one-third of its population, with over ten cities larger than 10 million, and maybe home to four of the largest cities of the world's largest ten. The rights to the city and the right to breathe, bread, and work are as significant to South Asians. The current volume is a timely addition to perhaps aiming for sustainable cities, with many case studies on initiatives towards that end. The canvas is vast, and the coverage is daunting. However, the editors have a challenging task to balance out keeping the integrity of the theme in focus Professor Avaya Mohapatra Former Head and Professor now retired North Eastern Hill University Meghalaya It would be fair to say that while the fascinating scientific works inquired into by the authors through several chapters the very book is useful as a reference for readers and researchers regarding urban sustainability in South Asian developing countries including Nepal Keep up the good work Professor Vidhya Bir Singh Kansakar a veteran geographer of Nepal This book should become a companion reader for scholars and students studying sustainability It looks comprehensive admirably clear in its objectives and intellectually lively Professor Suman Singh Department of Geography Banaras Hindu University
