The Sources of Economic Growth in the United States and the Alternatives Before Us Edward Fulton

Denison, 1962

The Sources of Economic Growth Richard R. Nelson, 1996

Sources of Economic Growth

Mr. Abdelhak Senhadji, 1999-06-01 A growth accounting exercise is conducted for 88 countries for 1960-94 to examine the source of cross country differences in total factor productivity (TFP) levels. Two differences distinguish this analysis from that of the related literature. First, the critical technology parameter, the share of physical capital in real output, is econometrically estimated and the usual assumption of identical technology across regions is relaxed. Second, while the few studies on the determinants of cross country differences in TFP have focused on growth rates of real output, this analysis is on levels. Recent theoretical as well as empirical arguments point to the level of TFP as the more relevant variable to explain.

Sources of Economic Growth and Sustainable Development Hamdi Hoti, 2012 National economies are considered stable if they are able to utilize the sources, the human financial establishment and capital, to generate growth and sustainable economic development and ensuring the welfare of the inhabitants. Resources are a source of dispute; their use provides economic growth and social welfare. Increase of sustainable development is essential to achieving socio-economic stability and political development of the country. Ensures sustainable economy growth. Sustainable economic development represents real growth of Gross Domestic Product of a country and change in manufacturing capacity. Globalization in the early XXI century is called for nations, companies, jobs and lives. Transnational flow free and fast ideas, information, knowledge, people, goods, capital creates new direction and sustainable economic development. It is particularly a special issue for societies and economies in transition. Such as Kosovo was in harmony with the country's economic circumstances. Promote sustainable development which represents the link with the development of contemporary global economic trend. Governments influence the long term growth through institutions, structural policy, stabilisation, police, education, human capital, technology, adoption, market development, technological innovation, degree of competition, international trade, the quality of services, public infrastructure, governance, capacity, quality of institutions, limiting corruption, crime, etc. Corporations are global actors to promote research and development of new technologies, the manufacturing and service activities. They are carriers of organizational behavioral rules. The poor investments in the Kosovo economy speed and volume of production growth strengthen competitiveness. Facilitate greater access to international financial resources and bring wider diversification of output and exports in general.
