Industry of South Africa. A Sector Report Cyril Alias, 2015-05-07 Seminar paper from the year 2005 in the subject Business economics General grade 1.0 University of Applied Sciences Bielefeld course Internationale Wirtschaftsbeziehungen language English abstract Although South Africa was not very famous for its beverages esp its wines for long times and has gained fame in recent years only the heritage of its vine growing culture goes back to the mid of the 17th century European settlers predominantly from The Netherlands started to plant first seedlings in the Cape region It was Jan van Riebeeck founder of the Cape colony who brought the seedlings along from Europe in 1655 Some four years later the first South African wine was ready to be drunk However as the Dutch were not too experienced with viticulture real development took place only when French Huguenots settled in that region in the end of the 17th century In the mid of the 18th and the beginning of the 19th century these wines e.g. the very sweet Constantia wines were very popular all around Europe particularly in the royal houses But afterwards the demand shrank to nearly zero In 1973 viticulture was resumed in the African country However the wines were boycotted by the rest of the world due to the Apartheid problems within the country Only from 1990 onwards South African wine industry is recovering and nowadays belongs to the so-called New World wines which also include products from Chile Argentina Australia New Zealand and the United States California Race, Taste

South Africa is the eighth largest wine producer in the world, and its wine industry is among the oldest of the New World. Today it is one of the globe's most dynamic industries: compact but diverse. In the past decade, a new generation of winemakers has breathed new life into centuries-old estates and new boutique brands alike. The wines of South Africa is in four sections. The first introduces readers to the history of South African wine, beginning with the arrival of the Dutch and the establishment of what would become Cape Town. The second section analyzes South Africa's industry today. It pinpoints the geological, geographical, and climatic conditions that create the parameters and potential of South African wine. It describes the major grape varieties and wine styles and outlines the broad range of wines being produced. It shows the current infrastructure of the industry, significant regulatory matters, and South Africa's place in export markets. It also includes a general overview of wine tourism in South Africa. The third section inspects the challenges the industry faces, focusing on the three largest: profitability and the loss of vineyards as farmers switch to higher margin orchards; environmental concerns, the effects of climate change, and water conservation; and the legacy of apartheid and continued imbalances in the socioeconomic structure of the Western Cape, including land redistribution, black economic empowerment initiatives designed to create a new generation of black business owners, and efforts to create a skilled, better-paid black workforce within the industry. The last section familiarizes readers with the major growing areas of South Africa and the most important producers operating in each one. It opens with a description of the Wine of Origin system, which designates three tiers of major appellations: Regions, Districts, and Wards. Descriptions of individual regions and the producers based within each of them follow. A glossary explains important terms that are specific to the South African wine industry. John Platter's South African Wine Guide 2000 John Platter, 2000
