EMUs A History Hugh Llewelyn, 2016-04-15 A fascinating collection of photographs of second and third generation EMUs Alfred Raworth's Electric Southern Railway Peter Steer, 2022-05-05 The Southern Railway between 1923 and 1939 was the only British company to carry out a sustained programme of electrification which became known as the Southern Electric Unlike many recent projects each incremental step was completed on time and within budget This successful project was more impressive as it was achieved during a period of economic stagnation including the great depression and despite government disapproval of the method of electrification The driving force behind this endeavor was the railway's general manager Sir Herbert Walker but at his side was his electrical engineer Alfred Raworth the man one journalist described as an electrification genius Alfred Raworth's career began working with his father the eminent consulting engineer and entrepreneur John Smith Raworth Following the collapse of his father's business Alfred joined the railway industry and devised an ambitious and innovative electrification design This was discarded when the railways of southern England were grouped into the Southern Railway after which he took responsibility for the implementation of the electrification schemes With Walker's retirement in 1937 those who continued to support steam traction took the policy lead A marginalised Raworth retired but was later to witness the fruition of many of his discarded ideas Southern Imagining Elleke

Boehmer, 2025-12-30 A new compass for global reading looking at the world from the far southern latitudes A northern viewpoint is most often the default while the south the far southern latitudes occupied by Australia New Zealand Argentina and southern Africa among others seems far away and ignorable In Southern Imagining Elleke Boehmer offers an alternative perspective using literary scientific and cultural material to explore how we look at the world from the south Reading she argues is a transformative means of reversing our usual planetary orientation and rearranging our perceptual geography Boehmer examines writing from across southern continents and islands considering how we imaginatively inhabit the farthest reaches of our planet Creators ranging from the Portuguese epic poet Luís de Camões to Samuel Taylor Coleridge Charles Darwin Katherine Mansfield Jorge Luis Borges and ancient Indigenous storytellers capture the edgy and austere experiences of the far south For Boehmer imaginative work stimulates and shapes our phenomenological understanding Southerners often see themselves as far away from where things count as outsiders internalising the wider global sense of their relative insignificance Conversely when northerners read or hear legends narratives songs and poems from the south it is as if they are located in the south at least for the duration of the reading or listening Boehmer suggests that the south tilted world map re-centred through song and story invites us to claim a more involved sense of belonging to our planet both its north and its south The writers of the south disrupt conventional ways of seeing and invite us to inhabit our globe differently West's Southern Reporter, 1997 Southern EMUs in Colour John C. railway scene of southern England stretching from Cornwall to the Kent Coast served from 1953 to the present day by the Southern Region and its successors When our story begins steam west of the Portsmouth main line still reigns supreme whilst much of the rest of the network is served by Southern Electric Many of the trains at work in 1953 were of pre 1939 origin some even dating back to the first decade of the 20th century although the influence of Oliver Bulleid's revolutionary semi streamline pacifics and high capacity suburban electric multiple units pointed to the future By 1967 diesel would replace steam and electrification would spread whilst many less well used lines in Hampshire Dorset Devon and Cornwall would close Electrification had begun in the London area in the early 1900s expanding to the Kent Sussex and east Hampshire coasts in the process creating the greatest main line electrified system in the world this would continue down to today
