Southern Railway Miscellany:

Southern Railway Miscellany Kevin Robertson,2003-04-01 Although the Southern Railway existed for only a relatively short period from the Grouping in 1923 through to Nationalisation during that 25 year period it created a strong identity both among the travelling public and among its staff While much of the infrastructure and equipment used by the SR was inherited from the three constituent pre Grouping companies and survived to Nationalisation the SR was innovative in many ways from its widespread adoption of third rail electrification and its use of concrete through to its locomotive design particularly under Bulleid For the modeller obtaining photographic information is an essential part of gathering material to help construct the most realistic models While there is a considerable amount of material published on locomotives the quality of information on other topics station design train formation platform furniture rolling stock freight facilities tends to be much more variable The OPC Miscellany series was designed to circumvent this weakness by producing a range of high quality heavily illustrated books on individual railway companies providing modellers and historians with an excellent photographic record of the individual railway company and its many and varied operations This new addition to a popular series features the Southern Railway between 1923 and 1948 Drawing upon some 250 mono photographs Kevin Robertson examines in depth the railway and those aspects of the Southern that helped to make it readily identifiable to enthusiasts and modellers

Pearce,2012-07-01 In the 1950s and 1960s south Lancashire and Cheshire was criss crossed by a web of railway lines servicing the various needs of local industries The region was a haven for railway enthusiasts who pursued the hundreds of steam workhorses based at British Railways depots in chemical towns such as Warrington Widnes Wigan and Sutton Oak besides Southport and Northwich While these facilities appeared less glamorous than larger counterparts in Liverpool or Manchester the stories of the engines trains and the men who were based at the depots in these towns was no less fascinating Shed Side in South Lancashire and Cheshire provides a fascinating portrait of the daily operations of the freight and passenger trains of the region during the final decade of Britain s steam era It evokes a period of grimy metal clattering smoke filled industry and of an era forever etched in our industrial heritage
