Rodanum Guus Besuijen, 2008 Beneath the surface of Aardenburg a small town in the south western part of the Netherlands lie the remains of a Roman settlement that is presumed to have been named Rodanum Extensive archaeological excavations from the late 1950s to the late 1980s revealed that the settlement was similar in size or even larger than the modern town Its centre was formed by a large castellum type fortification wall that enclosed several large stone buildings The settlement was connected to the sea by a natural watercourse that defined its economic and logistical importance in the region Rodanum s military function was to secure the regional coast against attacks by Germanic tribes via the North Sea which occurred around AD 175 It continued to be inhabited until the late third century or the beginning of the fourth century after which the settlement was deserted until the early Middle Ages The first part of this study provides an overview of Aardenburg during the Roman period in which its economic and military functions within the region are explored In particular the military and civilian character of the town is discussed The second part contains a study of the metal objects and aims to present significant additional information This part concludes with a critical review of the current state of research at this site

The Bronze Bell Louis Joseph Vance, 2020-06-06 In the dull hot dusk of a summer s day a green touring car swinging out of the East Drive pulled up smartly trembling at the edge of the Fifty ninth Street car tracks then more sedately under the dispassionate but watchful eye of a mounted member of the Traffic Squad lurched across the Plaza and merged itself in the press of vehicles south bound on the Avenue Its tonneau held four young men all more or less disguised in dust dusters and goggles forward by the side of the grimy and anxious eyed mechanic sat a fifth in all visible respects the counterpart of his companions Beneath his mask and by this I do not mean his goggles but the mask of modern manner which the worldly wear he was and is different He was Daniel Maitland Esquire for whom no further introduction should be required after mention of the fact that he was and remains the identical gentleman of means and position in the social and financial worlds whose somewhat sober but sincere and wholehearted participation in the wildest of conceivable escapades had earned him the affectionate regard of the younger set together with the sobriquet of Mad Maitland Breaking suddenly upon the steady drumming of the trucks the prolonged and husky roar of a locomotive whistle saluted an immediate grade crossing Roused by this sound from his solitary musings in the parlour car of which he happened temporarily to be the sole occupant Mr David Amber put aside the magazine over which he had been dreaming and looked out of the window catching a glimpse of woodland road shining white between sombre walls of stunted pine Lazily he consulted his watch It s not for nothing he observed pensively that this railroad wears its reputation we are consistently late His gaze again diverted to the flying countryside noted that it had changed character pine yielding to scrub oak and second growth the ragged vestments of an area some years since denuded by fire This too presently swung away giving place to cleared land arable acres golden with the stubble of garnered harvests or sentinelled with unkempt shocks of corn In the south a shimmer of laughing gold and blue edged the faded horizon Eagerly the young man leaned forward dark eyes the functions of waiting room and ticket and telegraph offices From its eaves depended a weather worn board bearing the legend Nokomis The train pausing only long enough to disgorge from the baggage car a trunk or two and from the day coaches a thin trickle of passengers flung on into the wilderness cracked bell clanking somewhat disdainfully By degrees the platform cleared the erstwhile patrons of the road and the station loafers for the most part half marked natives of the region straggling off upon their several ways some afoot a majority in dilapidated surreys and buckboards Amber watched them go with unassumed indifference their type interested him little But in their company he presently discovered one a figure so thoroughly foreign and aloof in attitude that it caught his eye and having caught held it clouded with perplexity

A Mythological Approach to Exploring the Origins of Chinese Civilization Shuxian Ye,2022-08-26 Is the lion the symbol of China Or should it be the dragon or the phoenix This book makes a provocative interpretation of the Chinese ancient totems such as the bear and the owl Taking a mythological approach it explores the origin of Chinese civilization using the quadruple evidence method which integrates ancient and unearthed literature oral transmission and archeological objects and graphs It testifies to the authenticity of unresolved ancient myths and legends from the origins of Chinese Jade Ware 6200BC 5400 BC to the names of the Yellow Emperor 2698 2598 BC and the legends from the Xia 2010BC 1600BC Shang 1600BC 046BC Zhou 1046BC 771BC and Qin 221BC 206BC Dynasties The book lays the foundation for a reconstruction of Chinese Mythistory With well over 200 photographs of historic artifacts the book appeals to both researchers and general readers

The Nanjing Massacre and the Making of Mediated Trauma Hongtao Li, Shunming Huang, 2021-08-30 Drawing on cultural trauma theory this book investigates how collective memory of the Nanjing Massacre is fashioned in China and how the mass media political power and public praxis jointly shape the politics and culture of memory in contemporary China Allowing for the dimensions of history and different mediating spaces the authors first conduct textual analysis of news reports from traditional media since the event took place revealing that the significance of the Massacre was initially portrayed as a local incident before its construction as a national trauma and finally a collective memory In a study of physical and online memorial spaces including the Memorial Hall commemorative activities on the Internet and new media platforms the book unveils the production and reproduction of trauma narratives as well as how these narratives have been challenged The final part further studies the interactions between media and other institutional settings while exploring issues of global memory and reconciliation in East Asia The title will be an essential read for anyone interested in memory studies media and communication and particularly the collective memory of the Nanjing Massacre

Dao Companion to the Excavated Guodian Bamboo Manuscripts Shirley Chan, 2019-05-03 This volume covers the philosophical historical religious and interpretative aspects of the ancient Guodian bamboo manuscripts which were disinterred in the Guodian Village in Hubei Province China in 1993 Considered to be the Chinese equivalent of the Dead Sea Scrolls these manuscripts are archaeological finds whose importance cannot be underestimated Many of the texts are without counterparts in the transmitted tradition and they provide unique insights into the developments of Chinese philosophy in the period between the death of Confucius 551-479 BCE and the writings of Mencius c. 372-289 BCE and beyond Divided into two parts the book first provides intertextual contexts and backgrounds of the Guodian manuscripts The second part covers the main concepts and arguments in the Guodian texts including cosmology and metaphysics political philosophy moral psychology and theory of human nature The thematic essays serve as an introduction to the philosophical significance and the key philosophical concepts thought of each text contained in the Guodian corpus Each chapter has a section on the implications of the texts for the received tradition or for the purpose of comparing some of the texts with the received tradition in terms of the key philosophical concepts as well as the reading and interpretation of the texts The volume covers most of the texts inscribed on the 800 odd slips of the Guodian corpus dated to the fourth century BCE The Journal of the Institution of Electrical Engineers ,1917

Adopting the Melody of Appearance: An Psychological Symphony within The Bronze Bell

In a global taken by screens and the ceaseless chatter of fast interaction, the melodic splendor and mental symphony produced by the prepared term often fade into the backdrop, eclipsed by the relentless sound and distractions that permeate our lives. But, located within the pages of The Bronze Bell a wonderful fictional treasure full of raw thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by an elegant composer of language, that charming masterpiece conducts viewers on a mental journey, skillfully unraveling the concealed tunes and profound influence resonating within each carefully constructed phrase. Within the depths of the touching evaluation, we can investigate the book is central harmonies, analyze its enthralling writing type, and submit ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
