The Ministers Wooing:

The Minister's Wooing, by Harriet Beecher Stowe, (Historical Novel) Harriet Beecher Stowe, 2016-07-02 The Minister's Wooing is a historical novel by Harriet Beecher Stowe first published in 1859. Set in 18th century New England, the novel explores New England history, highlights the issue of slavery, and critiques Calvinist theology in which Stowe was raised. Due to similarities in setting, comparisons are often drawn between this work and Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter (1850). However, in contrast to Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter, The Minister's Wooing is a sentimental romance; its central plot revolves around courtship and marriage. Moreover, Stowe's exploration of the regional history of New England deals primarily with the domestic sphere, the New England response to slavery, and the psychological impact of the Calvinist doctrines of predestination and disinterested benevolence. With its intense focus upon the history, customs, and mannerisms of New England, The Minister's Wooing is, in one sense, an example of the local color writing that proliferated in late 19th century America. However, by highlighting the issue of slavery, this time in the north, The Minister's Wooing also represents a continuation of Stowe's earlier anti-slavery novels. Finally, the work serves as a critique of Calvinism written from the perspective of an individual deeply familiar with the theological system. Stowe's father was the well-known Calvinist minister Lyman Beecher, and Stowe based many aspects of the novel upon events in the lives of herself and her older sister Catharine's life. Throughout the novel, Stowe portrays the reaction of different personality types to the pressures of Calvinist principles, illustrating in this manner what she perceives as Calvinism's strengths and weaknesses. In particular, responding to the untimely death of her sister's fiancé and the death of two of her own children, Stowe addresses the issue of predestination, the idea that individuals were either saved or damned and only the elect would go to heaven. Publication History The Minister's Wooing was first serialized in the Atlantic Monthly from December 1858 to December 1859 and then published in book form first in England by Sampson Low, Son & Co. and then in the US by Derby and Jackson in order to guarantee British royalties. Genesis of the Novel In 1857, Harriet Stowe's son Henry drowned in the Connecticut River. Like the sailor James in the novel, he was unregenerate at the time of his death. Stowe had first begun to reassess the Calvinist view of salvation after watching her sister Catherine wrestle with the similar loss of an unregenerate fiancé in 1822, and her own son's death spurred further reflection. The grief and doubt experienced by both Harriet and her sister served as the genesis of the novel, and their experience finds its fullest expression in the character of Mrs. Marvyn. Some readers, including Stowe's own grandson Lyman Beecher, proclaimed the book to be an assault on Calvinism. Stowe did indeed question the establishment in which she had been raised, but it is evident from her journals that she was not seeking to launch a full attack. Indeed, she expressed a profound respect and admiration for both Calvinist theology and the individuals who grappled with its doctrines. Her stated intent was instead to point out certain flaws and to spread tolerance. Harriet Elisabeth Beecher Stowe (June 14, 1811 – July 1, 1896) was an American abolitionist and author. She wrote 30 books, including novels, three travel memoirs, and collections of Hablot Knight Browne (10 July 1815 – 8 July 1882) was an English artist and illustrator. Well known by his pen name Phiz, he illustrated books by Charles Dickens, Charles Lever, and Harrison Ainsworth.

Harriet Elisabeth Beecher Stowe (June 14, 1811 – July 1, 1896) was an American abolitionist and author. She came from the Beecher family, a famous religious family, and is best known for her novel Uncle Tom's Cabin (1852), which depicts the harsh conditions for enslaved African Americans. The book reached millions as a novel and play and became influential in the United States and Great Britain, energizing anti-slavery forces in the American North while provoking widespread anger in the South. Stowe wrote 30 books, including novels, three travel memoirs, and collections of articles and letters. She was influential for both her writings and her public stances and debates on social issues of the day.

Life and work: Harriet Elisabeth Beecher was born in Litchfield, Connecticut, on June 14, 1811. She was the sixth of 11 children born to outspoken Calvinist preacher Lyman Beecher. Her mother was his first wife, Roxana Foote, a deeply religious woman who died when Stowe was only five years old. Roxana's maternal grandfather was General Andrew Ward of the Revolutionary War. Her notable siblings included a sister, Catharine Beecher, who became an educator and author, as well as brothers who became ministers, including Henry Ward Beecher, who became a famous preacher and abolitionist, Charles Beecher, and Edward Beecher.

The Minister's Wooing Harriet Beecher Stowe, 2019-11-29. In The Minister's Wooing, Harriet Beecher Stowe crafts a richly layered narrative set against the backdrop of 19th-century New England, delving into issues of religion, love, and moral struggle. Stowe employs a blend of sentimental fiction and realist prose, intertwining vivid character portraits with engaging dialogue to explore the complexities of human relationships and faith. The story pivots around the lives of a diligent minister and the women who love him, revealing the societal expectations of the time and the personal conflicts that arise when duty and passion collide. Harriet Beecher Stowe, an ardent abolitionist and social reformer, was deeply influenced by her experiences growing up in a religious family and her later involvement in social causes. Her passionate advocacy for the marginalized and critique of societal norms resonate throughout the novel, providing a profound commentary on the intersections of morality and personal desire. Stowe's own life experiences and her position as a female writer in a male dominated literary landscape served to shape the themes and characters in this work Readers interested in American literature and the intricacies of human emotion will find The Minister's Wooing a captivating read Stowe's insightful exploration of love and faith invites readers to ponder their own beliefs and choices making this novel not only a compelling story but also a timeless reflection on the human condition

The author has endeavoured in this story to paint a style of life and manners which existed in New England in the earlier days of her national existence Some of the principal characters are historic the leading events of the story are founded on actual facts although the author has taken the liberty to arrange and vary them for the purposes of the story The author has executed the work with a reverential tenderness for those great and religious minds who laid in New England the foundations of many generations and for those institutions and habits of life from which as from a fruitful germ sprang all the present prosperity of America Such as it is it is commended to the kindly thoughts of that British fireside from which the fathers and mothers of America first went out to give to English ideas and institutions a new growth in a new world
