Ageing and Long-term Care David R. Phillips, 2014-05-14 The case studies in this book focus on the emergence extent and nature of national policies on ageing and associated strategies to address long term care needs Key opportunities for and constraints on policy are identified in this first round of regional studies

Psychology of Aging Aimee Spector, 2017-03-02 The psychology of aging is an exciting and rapidly developing field This volume provides a collection of classic original and often widely cited papers including some older papers which may be hard to find through conventional searches Taken together they help to address some key questions what are the cognitive changes related to aging Is mental exercise useful To what extent might intelligence education or stimulating mental activities delay or even reduce cognitive symptoms of dementia However the book goes well beyond cognition and addresses social and emotional changes in aging as well as looking at how lifestyle factors may be influential in psychological functioning The section on the psychology of dementia covers the evolving psychological models plus innovative types of psychological interventions As more people live to an age where they are dependent on others the book also considers the stresses on carers and how carers can be supported Lastly other aspects of mental health problems in old age are addressed including depression PTSD and personality disorder This collection of intriguing and inspiring papers will liven up the shelves of students researchers and academics in the field as well as being a very useful resource for research teaching and study

Textbook of Female Urology and Urogynecology, Fourth Edition - Two-Volume Set Linda Cardozo, David Staskin, 2017-01-06 Featuring contributions by an international team of the world's experts in urology and gynecology this fourth edition reinforces its status as the classic comprehensive resource on female urology and urogynecology and an essential clinical reference in the field Mobility and Transportation in the Elderly K. Warner Schaie, PhD, Martin Pietrucha, PhD, 2000-03-10 This comprehensive volume examines the gradual reduction of mobility in the elderly The authors first review the physiological and psychological changes that occur as we age and go on to illustrate how this gradual decrease in adequate mobility can lead to an increase in automotive accidents They also review the limitations that mass transportation systems and driving individual vehicles present for the elderly and discuss different assistive devices that have been and should be implemented to help improve mobility Each chapter ends with insightful commentaries by specialists in the gerontology field This book is a must read for gerontologists as well as policy makers and educators on courses in organizational structures of social policy Global Aging and Challenges to Families Vern Bengtson, 2018-01-16 The recent explosion in population ageing across the globe represents one of the most remarkable demographic changes in human history Population ageing will profoundly affect families Who will care for the growing numbers of tomorrows very old members of societies Will it be state governments The aged themselves Their families The purpose of this book is to examine consequences of global aging for families and intergenerational support and for nations as they plan for the future The Need for Theory Simon Biggs, Jon Hendricks, Ariela Lowenstein, 2020-11-25 The Need for Theory speaks to the burgeoning need for critical thinking in social gerontology The editors have brought together some of the foremost contributors to theoretical advances in the field This volume incorporates state of the art theorizing with a focus on selected topical areas facing gerontologists around the world Using their keen insights into substantive issues the contributors examine personal and structural changes affecting individuals over the life course Extolling the need for theory is not enough the contributors focus their insights on a panoply of substantive issues linking the personal with the political and with the structural parameters that shape the process of aging no matter where it occurs The New Science of Ageing Alan Walker, 2014-08-29 This unique book represents the first multi disciplinary examination of ageing covering everything from basic cell biology to social participation in later life to the representations of old age in the arts and literature A comprehensive introductory text about the latest scientific evidence on ageing the book draws on the pioneering New Dynamics of Ageing Programme the UK s largest research programme in ageing This programme brought together leading academics from across the arts and humanities social and biological sciences and fields of engineering and medical research to study how ageing is changing and the ways in which this process can be made more beneficial to both individuals and society Comprising individual local national and global perspectives this book will appeal to everyone with an interest in one of the greatest challenges facing the world our own ageing Understanding Human Development Ursula M. Staudinger, Ulman E.R. Lindenberger, 2012-12-06 K Warner Schaie I am pleased to write a foreword for this interesting volume particularly as over many years I have had the privilege of interacting with the editors and a majority of the contributors in various professional roles as a colleague mentor or research collaborator The editors begin their introduction by asking why one would want to read yet another book on human development They immediately answer their question by pointing out that many developmentally oriented texts and other treatises neglect the theoretical foundations of human development and fail to embed psychological constructs within the multidisciplinary context so essential to understanding development This volume provides a positive remedy to past deficiencies in volumes on human development with a well organized structure that leads the reader from a general introduction through the basic processes to methodological issues and the relation of developmental constructs to social context and biological infrastructure This approach does not surprise After all the editors and most of the contributors at one time or another had a connection to the Max Planck Institute of Human Development in Berlin whether as students junior scientists or senior visitors That institute under the leadership of Paul Baltes has been instrumental in pursuing a systematic lifespan approach to the study of cognition and personality Over the past two decades it has influenced the careers of a generation of scientists who have advocated long term studies of human development in an interdisciplinary context
