group of documentary journalists from the National Broadcasting Company NBC reported the stories of America's overseas conflicts. Stuart Schulberg supplied film evidence to prosecute Nazi war criminals and established documentary units in postwar Berlin and Paris. NBC newsman David Brinkley created the template for prime time news in 1961 and bore the scars to prove it. In 1964 Ted Yates and Bob Rogers produced a documentary warning of the pitfalls in Vietnam. Yates was later shot and killed in Jerusalem on the first day of the Six Day War while producing a documentary for NBC News. In Into the Fray, Tom Mascaro vividly recounts the characters and experiences that helped create a unique, colorful documentary film crew based at the Washington bureau of NBC News. From the Kennedy era through the Reagan years, the journalists covered wars, rebellions, the Central Intelligence Agency covert actions, the Pentagon military preparedness, and world and American cultures. They braved conflicts and crises to tell the stories that Americans needed to see and hear, and in the process they changed the face of journalism. Mascaro also looks at the social changes in and around the unit itself, including the struggles and triumphs of women and African Americans in the field of television documentary. Into the Fray is the story of adventure, loyalty to reason, and life and death in the service of broadcast journalism.

That's the Way It Is Charles L. Ponce de Leon, 2015-05-04 This engaging and important study examines the evolution of TV news and its long history of blending journalism and entertainment. American Historical Review Today's media critics often decry the state of television news, saying that it's too dumbed down, becoming more entertainment than information. But this familiar narrative fails to acknowledge real changes in media and Americans' news-consuming habits. It also harkens back to a golden age that, on closer examination, is revealed to be not so golden. As Charles L. Ponce de Leon explains in That's the Way It Is, TV news has always walked a fine line between hard news and fluff. Ponce de Leon traces the entire history of televised news from the household names of the late 1940s and early 50s, like Eric Sevareid, Edward R. Murrow, and Walter Cronkite, through the rise of cable, the political power of Fox News, and the satirical punch of Colbert and Stewart. He describes an industry forever in transition, where newsmagazines and celebrity profiles vie with political news and serious investigations. The need for ratings, success, and the lighter human interest stories that can help bring it all, Ponce de Leon makes clear, has always sat uneasily alongside a real desire to report hard news. Highlighting the paradoxes at the heart of TV news and telling a story rich in familiar figures and fascinating anecdotes, That's the Way It Is offers an insightful and engaging account of how television has presented our history as it happens.

Private Screenings Lynn Spigel, Denise Mann, 1992 While much research into television has been historical, textual, or empirical, this volume approaches the topic from a sociocultural and feminist perspective to address important questions from the viewpoint of the audience as well as from that of the industry. The contributors examine the ways in which the television industry seeks to deliver a female audience to its advertisers while inserting itself into women's lives, both at home and in the marketplace, hence the concept of a private screening in which the outside media world is brought into the personal space. The volume analyzes how television delivers consumption to its female audience by displaying commodities and lifestyles that attempt to engender an idealized sense of community and how audiences understand television programming and how these programs construct definitions of femininity Special Edition Daniel Einstein, 1997 The second of two volumes which when taken together provide a comprehensive overview of network television news documentary news magazine and special news programming broadcast over ABC CBS and NBC from the 1950s through the 1980s
