

Chicago/Turabian Citation Style

(Note + Bibliography version: "Humanities Style")

The following examples illustrate the "Humanities Style" which uses notes (footnotes or endnotes) and a bibliography at the end of the document.

There are three main kinds of items you may be citing:

- Separately existing items (e.g., a book).
- Smaller items within larger works (e.g., a journal article or an article in a collection).
- Electronic items.

A citation has components which are arranged in a conventional order. The examples below illustrate first the citation as it appears in the note and then how it appears in the bibliography at the end of the paper. The citations in notes are in natural language, almost like sentences, but in the bibliography, the citation is broken down into separate elements and is arranged in alphabetical order, with the author's surname first. If there is no author, the citation is alphabetized starting with the first word of the title, other than articles like "the" or "a."

Book

In the footnote, a book appears as a single sentence, author's first name first, with the page you are citing at the end (note all the commas):

1 = Capitalize Important Words, 2 = no comma after the title,
3 = publication information in parentheses, 4 = colon, 5 = always end with a period!

In the bibliography, the three elements for a book are (note all the periods):

Note the other punctuation:

1 = comma, 2 = Capitalize Important Words, 3 = colon, 4 = always end with a period!
