

An aerial photograph of a submarine under construction in a large dry dock. The submarine's hull is a light tan color, and its conning tower is dark grey. The dock is filled with various construction equipment, including cranes and scaffolding. In the background, the ocean is visible with white-capped waves breaking against a dark, rocky shoreline. The overall scene depicts a major industrial and naval engineering project.

of military equipment as a catalyst for innovation and the civilian commercialization of military technologies from gunpowder and cannons to submarines missiles and aircraft is documented by many case illustrations that show how macro level productivity advance has been generated A complementary volume to Advancing Public Procurement as Industrial Policy 2010 which focused on the spillover effects of the Swedish combat aircraft Gripen in this book Gunnar Eliasson widens the perspective to cover product development across the Swedish defense industry with an emphasis on regional economic development and macro economics inter alia through the involvement of Saab aircraft and Kockums submarines in partnership ventures in Australia Norway and Brazil The volume is organized into four parts Part one examines the historical transformation of the Swedish economy over the past three centuries from agriculture and raw materials to an advanced industrial economy Part two presents detailed case studies to illustrate the spillover effects of procurement projects and military industrial partnerships Part three explains the spillover phenomenon theoretically within a dynamic micro to macro economic perspective Particular emphasis is placed on the empirical credibility of model based economy wide and dynamic cost benefit calculations The book concludes with a section on fostering industrial development through public procurement The result is a book that will appeal to economists in the industrial economics and management fields to technical marketing and purchasing executives in business and to policy makers in public procurement concerned with innovation and long run industrial development

Chinese Naval Shipbuilding Andrew S. Erickson, 2017-02-15 China's shipbuilding industry has grown more rapidly than any other in modern history Commercial shipbuilding output jumped thirteen fold from 2002-12 ensuring that Beijing has largely reached its goal of becoming the world's leading shipbuilder Yet progress is uneven with military shipbuilding leading overall but with significant weakness in propulsion and electronics for military and civilian applications It has never been more important to assess what ships China can supply its navy and other maritime forces with today and in the future Chinese Naval Shipbuilding answers three pressing questions What are China's prospects for success in key areas of naval shipbuilding What are the likely results for China's navy What are the implications for the U.S. Navy To address these critical issues this volume assembles some of the world's leading experts and linguistic analysts often pairing them in research teams These sailors scholars industry professionals and government specialists have commanded ships at sea led shipbuilding programs ashore toured Chinese vessels and production facilities invested in Chinese shipyards and analyzed and presented important data to top level decision makers in times of crisis In synthesizing their collective insights this book fills a key gap in our understanding of China its shipbuilding industry its navy and what it all means Steel Boats

Iron Men - Submarine League Mike H. Rindskopf, 1994 Airborne Maritime Surveillance in the North Atlantic John O. Birkeland, 2025-07-17 This book offers a comprehensive examination of historical Norwegian and allied airborne maritime surveillance operations in the North Atlantic after World War II until the present Russia's resurgent naval and submarine activity in the High North needs to be closely observed Norway together with her closest allies have monitored such activity in the High North since the end of World War II One of the key instruments in that effort has been Maritime Patrol Aircraft MPA with their Anti Submarine Warfare ASW capabilities However after the Cold War in many nations an atrophy took place within the MPA communities of knowledge resources and experience with airborne ASW This occurred just as the concept of intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance ISR came to play an increasingly important role in modern warfare but without sufficient attention being paid to the specific challenges of maritime airborne surveillance and reconnaissance This book addresses that gap and examines the entwined evolution of airborne maritime surveillance by MPA and ASW in the High North both during and after the Cold War with the main focus being on Norway The discussion identifies the fundamental building blocks of these historical surveillance operations through a portrayal of the development of airborne surveillance and reconnaissance operations These building blocks are then applied to make recommendations for the future for maritime surveillance in the High North This book will be of much interest to students of naval history strategic studies intelligence studies Nordic studies and International Relations
