Superintendent of Documents, 1995 Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, 1995 The Politics of Piracy Andrew Mertha, 2018-09-05 China is by far the world's leading producer of pirated goods from films and books to clothing from consumer electronics to aircraft parts As China becomes a full participant in the international economy its inability to enforce intellectual property rights is coming under escalating international scrutiny What is the impact Andrew C Mertha asks of external pressure on China's enforcement of intellectual property The conventional wisdom sees a simple correlation between greater pressure and better domestic compliance with international norms and declared national policy Mertha's research tells a different story external pressure may lead to formal agreements in Beijing resulting in new laws and official regulations but it is China's complex network of bureaucracies that decides actual policy and enforcement The structure of the administrative apparatus that is supposed to protect intellectual property rights makes it possible to track variation in the effects of external pressure for different kinds of intellectual property Mertha shows that while the sustained pressure of state to state negotiations has shaped China's patent and copyright laws it has had little direct impact on the enforcement of those laws By contrast sustained pressure from inside China on the part of foreign trademark owners and private investigation companies in their employ provides a far greater rate of trademark enforcement and spurs action from anti counterfeiting agencies Congressional Record United States.
