T-34 vs StuG III Steven J. Zaloga, 2019-08-22 In the summer of 1944 the Red Army staged a massive armoured assault up the Karelian Isthmus with the intent of eliminating any remaining German and Finnish forces facing the Leningrad region Most of the Soviet units sent into Finland were new to the region moving mainly from the fighting in the Leningrad area As a result some had the latest types of Soviet equipment including the new T 34 85 tank fielded alongside the older T 34 76 Germany refused to sell the Finns new tanks without a reinforced military alliance but in 1943 began selling them a few dozen StuG III assault guns This made the StuG III battalion the most modern and powerful element of the Finnish armoured division and it saw very extensive combat in the June July summer battles Featuring specially commissioned artwork and an array of archive photographs this is the absorbing story of the parts played low profile to reduce vehicle heights and had a limited lateral traverse of a few degrees in either direction Thus the entire vehicle had to be turned in order to acquire targets Omitting the turret made production much simpler and less costly enabling greater numbers to be built Most assault guns were mounted on the chassis of a Panzer III or Panzer IV with the resultant model being called either a StuG III or StuG IV respectively The StuG was one of the most effective tracked vehicles of World War II and over 10 000 of them were eventually produced
