Life and Death in the Roman Suburb Allison L. C. Emmerson, 2020-05-24 Defined by borders both physical and conceptual the Roman city stood apart as a concentration of life and activity that was legally economically and ritually divided from its rural surroundings Death was a key area of control and tombs were relegated outside city walls from the Republican period through Late Antiquity Given this separation an unexpected phenomenon marked the Augustan and early Imperial periods Roman cities developed suburbs built up areas beyond their boundaries where the living and the dead came together in densely urban environments Life and Death in the Roman Suburb examines these districts drawing on the archaeological remains of cities across Italy to understand the character of Roman suburbs and to illuminate the factors that led to their rise and decline focusing especially on the tombs of the dead Whereas work on Roman cities has tended to pass over funerary material and research on death has concentrated on issues seen as separate from urbanism Emmerson introduces a new paradigm considering tombs within their suburban surroundings of shops houses workshops garbage dumps extramural sanctuaries and major entertainment buildings in order to trace the many roles they played within living cities Her investigations show how tombs were not passive memorials but active spaces that facilitated and furthered the social and economic life of the city where relationships between the living and the dead were an enduring aspect of urban life

Bootstrap New Urbanism Joseph A. Rodriguez, 2014-08-26 Joseph A Rodriguez critically examines the urban design and revitalization initiatives undertaken by both the government and the people of Milwaukee Wisconsin In the 1990s New Urbanists followed a city tradition of using urban design to solve problems while seeking to elevate the city s national reputation and status While New Urbanism was not the only design element undertaken to further Milwaukee s redevelopment the elite focus on New Urbanism reflected an attempt to fashion a self help narrative for the revitalization of the city This approach linked New Urbanist design to the strengthening of grassroots community organizing and volunteerism to solve urban problems Bootstrap New Urbanism Design Race and Redevelopment in Milwaukee uncovers a practice with implications for urban history architectural history planning history environmental design ethnic studies and urban politics
