Backlund, Henrik Oxvig, Michael Renner, Martin Soberg, 2019-09-13 When images look like something they do so because they are different from what they resemble This difference is not sufficiently captured by the traditional theories of representation and mimesis and yet it is the condition for any such theory Various contemporary image theorists have pointed out that Plato already understood that images are not what they look like Images have their own existence which cannot be identified with a concept but should be examined in terms of actions This book comprises fifteen articles that investigate what images do particularly in relation to the disciplines of architecture design and visual arts It claims that it is the differentiating power of images their actions which constitutes their capacity to look like something they are not as well as create something that does not yet exist What Images Do addresses the crucial role that images might play in producing and investigating what we have not yet seen or understood in and of reality In the Midst of Things Mike Owen Benediktsson, 2025-06-17 How ordinary urban objects influence our behavior exacerbate inequality and encourage social change Assumptions about human behavior lie hidden in plain sight all around us programmed into the design and regulation of the material objects we encounter on a daily basis In the Midst of Things takes an in depth look at the social lives of five objects commonly found in the public spaces of New York City and its suburbs revealing how our interactions with such material things are our primary point of contact with the social political and economic forces that shape city life Drawing on groundbreaking fieldwork and a wealth of original interviews Mike Owen Benediktsson shows how we are in the midst of things whose profound social role often goes overlooked A newly built lawn on the Brooklyn waterfront reflects an increasingly common trade off between the marketplace and the public good A cement wall on a New Jersey highway speaks to the demise of the postwar American dream A metal folding chair on a patch of asphalt in Queens exposes the political obstacles to making the city livable A subway door expresses the simmering conflict between the city and the desires of riders while a newsstand bears witness to our increasingly impoverished streetscapes In the Midst of Things demonstrates how the material realm is one of immediacy control inequality and unpredictability and how these factors frustrate the ability of designers planners and regulators to shape human behavior The New York City Subway System Ronald A.
