funding bodies There are several common features of an ECR's job including the need to establish a professional identity and develop into an independent researcher competing for grants and increasing one's output of research publications this book offers proven practical advice to help ECRs kick start a successful academic career With advice on Choosing research topics Making best use of a Research Supervisor Mentor Developing your research writing Getting published journals and books Writing a research grant fellowship Becoming a supervisor Becoming a teacher and Developing your career This guide will help academics at the start of their career no matter what discipline they are engaged in Arts Humanities Sciences or Social Sciences For example in sciences and engineering ECRs are commonly part of a large research team and often have to work in collaborative groups requiring strong interpersonal skills but can lead to tension in the interaction with one's supervisor or mentor In contrast in the arts and humanities and perhaps the social sciences an ECR is more likely to be an independent scholar with a requirement to work alone leading to a different type of relationship but not necessarily any less stressful with one's supervisor or mentor Using case studies from across the subject areas to illustrate key points and give suitable examples this vital guide will help all early career academics
