The Land's Wild Music Mark Tredinnick, 2011-04-14 The Land's Wild Music explores the home terrains and the writing of four great American writers of place Barry Lopez Peter Matthiessen Terry Tempest Williams and James Galvin In their work and its relationship with their home places Tredinnick an Australian writer searches for answers to such questions such as whether it's possible for a writer to make an authentic witness of a place how one captures the landscape as it truly is and how one joins the place in witness so that its lyric becomes one's own and enters into one's own work He asks what it might mean to enact an ecological imagination of the world and whether it might be possible to see the work and the writer as part of the place itself The work is a meditation on the nature of landscape and its power to shape the lives and syntax of men and women It is animated by the author's encounters with Lopez Matthiessen Williams and Galvin by critical readings of their work and by the author's engagement with the landscapes that have shaped these writers and their writing the Cascades Long Island the Colorado Plateau and the high prairies of the Rocky Mountains Tredinnick seeks the spring of nature writing deep in the nature of a place itself carried in a writer's wild self inside and resonated over and over again at the desk until it is a work in which the place itself sings intersectional perspective including work on Black industrial musicians and Arabic and North African women's collaborations. Rather than providing historical context, the contributors interpret the finer elements of the aesthetics and discourses around physical bodies and power as expressed in the genre, expanding the industrial boundary and broadening the focus beyond white European industrial music. Living Philosophy in Kierkegaard, Melville, and Others Edward F.

Mooney, 2019-12-12 Edward F. Along the way, Mooney explores meditations on wilderness, the enigma of self-deception, the role of maternal love, and the pain of separations, and the pervasiveness of difficult reality where valuable things are presented to us under two or more aspects at once. Writing on Air David Rothenberg, Wandee J. Western American Literature, 2001 Current Directions in Ecomusicology Aaron S. Allen, Kevin Dawe, 2015-09-25 AWARD WINNER OF THE 2018 SOCIETY OF ETHNOMUSICOLOGY ELLEN KOSKOFF PRIZE This volume is the first sustained examination of the complex perspectives that comprise ecomusicology: the study of the intersections of music, sound, culture, society, and nature/environment. Twenty-two authors provide a range of theoretical, methodological, and empirical chapters representing disciplines such as anthropology, biology, ecology, environmental studies, ethnomusicology, history, literature, musicology, performance studies, and psychology. They bring their specialized training to bear on interdisciplinary topics both individually and in collaboration. Emerging from the whole is a view of ecomusicology as a field, a place where many disciplines come together. The topics addressed in this volume: contemporary composers and traditional music's acoustic ecology and politicized soundscapes; material sustainability and environmental crisis; familiar and unfamiliar sounds; local places and global warming; birds and mice; hearing and listening; biomusic and soundscape ecology; and more. Engage with conversations in the various realms of music study as well as in environmental studies and cultural studies. As with any healthy ecosystem, the field of ecomusicology is dynamic, but this edited collection provides a snapshot of it in a formative period Each chapter is short designed to be accessible to the nonspecialist and includes extensive bibliographies some chapters also provide further materials on a companion website <http://www.ecomusicology.info/cde> An introduction and interspersed editorial summaries help guide readers through four current directions ecological fieldwork critical and textual in the field of ecomusicology
