

SOCIAL COGNITIVE THEORY

Social-cognitive theory (SCT) is a theory of learning that examines how cognitive processes and environmental factors influence behavior.

OVERVIEW

Social Cognitive Theory (SCT), developed by Albert Bandura, is a learning theory that emphasizes the role of observational learning, cognitive processes, and social experiences in determining behavior. Central to this theory is the concept of reciprocal determinism, the mutual interaction between an individual's behaviors, personal factors, and environmental influences.

EXAMPLES

- Bobo Doll Experiment: Bandura demonstrated that children can learn aggressive behaviors by observing and imitating an adult model acting aggressively towards a Bobo doll.
- Teacher Expectations: If a teacher expects a student to perform well, this can positively affect the student's performance, illustrating the interplay of personal, environmental, and behavioral factors in learning.

popular politics Along with providing an array of important case studies of social movements in East Asia the introduction chapters and conclusion in the book take up three major theoretical questions the effect of the East Asian cultural social and institutional context upon the mobilization activities and outcomes of social movements in that region the role of social movements in larger transformative processes utility of Western social movement concepts in explaining social movements in East Asia This book will be of interest to two major groups of readers those who study East Asia and those who pursue social movements and civil society as well as politics more generally The Dynamics of Social Movements in Hong Kong Stephen Wing Kai Chiu,Tai Lok Lui,2000-01-01 Studies of Hong Kong society have long focused one sidedly upon economic prosperity and political stability Contributors to this volume redress this imbalance by taking a critical view of Hong Kong s political development from the perspectives of social conflict and collective action Instead of looking at Hong Kong from the top this volume documents the active role played by local actors from below political groups student activists trade unions women groups environmentalists and community organizers and their impact on social and political development in Hong Kong society in the context of political transition and democratization economic restructuring and an emergent local identity
