Aging and Old-Age Style in Günter Grass, Ruth Klüger, Christa Wolf, and Martin Walser Stuart Taberner, 2013. Explores the performance of aging in the late style of Günter Grass Ruth Klüger Christa Wolf and Martin Walser. Demographers say that by the year 2060 every seventh person in Germany will be aged eighty or older and every third person over sixty five. The prediction for other Western countries is scarcely different. Indeed the aging society is seen by some as a graver threat than even global warming with potentially unmanageable tensions relating to intergenerational relationships work and benefits and flows of people. This book explores the representation and performance of aging in recent late style German language fiction. It situates the authors chosen as case studies Günter Grass Ruth Klüger Christa Wolf and Martin Walser in their biographical and social contexts and explores the significance of their aesthetic figuring of aging for debates raging both in Germany and internationally. In particular the book looks at gender generations and trauma and their impact on how writers narrativize aging. Finally it examines the timeliness of these different representations and late style performances of aging in the context of the shift of social political and economic power away from the declining societies of the West to the ascendant societies of the East. Stuart Taberner is Professor of Contemporary German Literature Culture and Society at the University of Leeds.
