The Esoteric Basis of Christianity, or Theosophy and Christian Doctrine William Kingsland, 2015-06-02 Excerpt from The Esoteric Basis of Christianity or Theosophy and Christian Doctrine A Paper Read Before the Blavatsky Lodge of the Theosophical Society The particular point however to which I wish to direct your attention and which is a fundamental one before we can establish any relation between Theosophy and Christian Doctrine is this that in the nature of things in the nature of history of human progress and development in the nature of man s capacity for growth for the expansion of his limited and relative mind and consciousness in the nature of the universe itself there is and must be an inner and an outer an esoteric and an exoteric an outward form and an inner meaning an outward expression temporary finite mutable an inner principle eternal unvarying If there be any reality whatever underlying what we term phenomena the objective changeable world of sense and form that reality must constitute an inner mystery which is a mystery simply on account of our inability to sense and cognise it owing to our limited faculties And if there be any reality in that growth development or evolution which is the most prominent factor in our experience that reality consists in our coming into more and more intimate conscious relation to this inner principle which underlies phenomena consists in an apprehension of the noumena in the casting off of the temporary illusion of form of that bondage of the senses which causes attachment to form attachment to the impermanent and temporary whereby the permanent and eternal is lost sight of consists in short of the development of that faculty which cognises unity in diversity or in a word consists of spirituality In theosophical language this faculty resides in the fifth principle or Manas in the immortal spiritual Ego See diagram page 23 But setting aside specific theosophical doctrines let us see what relation this principle of an inner spiritual reality and an outer expression in form and of a corresponding evolution or expansion of human consciousness from particulars to universals bears to the subject before us About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
