The Evolution of Social Institutions Dmitri M. Bondarenko, Stephen A. Kowalewski, David B. Small, 2020-09-12 This book presents a novel and innovative approach to the study of social evolution using case studies from the Old and the New World from prehistory to the present This approach is based on examining social evolution through the evolution of social institutions Evolution is defined as the process of structural change Within this framework the society or culture is seen as a system composed of a vast number of social institutions that are constantly interacting and changing As a result the structure of society as a whole is also evolving and changing The authors posit that the combination of evolving social institutions explains the non linear character of social evolution and that every society develops along its own pathway and pace Within this framework society should be seen as the result of the compound effect of the interactions of social institutions specific to it Further the transformation of social institutions and relations between them is taking place not only within individual societies but also globally as institutions may be trans societal and even institutions that operate in one society can arise as a reaction to trans societal trends and demands The book argues that it may be more productive to look at institutions even within a given society as being parts of trans societal systems of institutions since despite their interconnectedness societies still have boundaries which their members usually know and respect Accordingly the book is a must read for researchers and scholars in various disciplines who are interested in a better understanding of the origins history successes and failures of social institutions

Preparing for Post-Secondary Education Paul Anisef, Robert Sweet, 2005-09-26 Most Canadian parents have had to assume a larger share of the financial costs of their children's post secondary education because of declining government funding and changing loans and bursary programs Preparing for Post Secondary Education considers the impact of increased private support and the planning strategies parents use based on information from a 1999 Statistics Canada national survey of 34 000 households The contributors begin by examining changes to national and international educational funding policies and the relationship between public and private costs They focus on the role of families in marshaling the necessary resources demonstrating that access to post secondary education is also determined by social capital The authors conclude that new partnerships between parents the state and schools are redefining the various players roles and commitments to the educational futures of Canadian children Contributors include the late Stephen Bell York University Scott Davies McMaster University Ross Finnie Queen's University George Frempong York University Dianne Looker Acadia University Nancy Mandell York University Sheila Marshall University of British Columbia Hans Schuetze University of British Columbia Victor Thiessen Dalhousie University Jim White University of British Columbia and Jamie Wood University of British Columbia
