Texts and Textuality Philip G. Cohen,2018-12-20 These essays deal with the scholarly study of the genesis transmission and editorial reconstitution of texts by exploring the connections between textual instability and textual theory interpretation and pedagogy What makes this collection unique is that each essay brings a different theoretical orientation New Historicism Poststructuralism or Feminism to bear upon a different text such as Whitman s Leaves of Grass Faulkner s The Sound and the Fury or hypertext fiction to explore the dialectical relationship between texts and textuality The essays bring some of the textual theories that compete with each other today into contact with a broad range of primarily literary textual histories That texts are intrinsically unstable frequently consisting of a series of determinate historical versions has consequences for all students of literature because different versions of a literary work frequently help shape different readings independently of the interpretations brought to bear upon them Textual instability of the works is relevant to our understanding of how the meanings of texts are generated The contributors build on the numerous challenges to the Anglo American editorial tradition mounted during the past decade by scholars as diverse as Jerome McGann D F McKenzie Peter Shillingsburg D C Greetham Hershel Parker and Hans Walter Gabler The volume contributes to the paradigm shift in textual scholarship inaugurated by these scholars Index

A Developmental-functionalist Approach To Child Language

Nancy Budwig,2013-04-15 Although there has been much empirical study within what has been referred to as functional approaches to child language there has yet to be a major attempt to compare and contrast such proposals. In addition much of the work carried out within child language from a functionalist perspective has not been specific with regard to the nature of the approach adopted. In attempting to fill the gap the author of this book begins with a comparison of various functionalist approaches. By concentrating on one domain agentivity and control Budwig develops a set of research questions based on an examination of findings stemming from linguistics psycholinguistics and developmental psychology and also provides an in depth discussion of related methodological issues. In the second part of the book she traces the development of linguistic means to refer to oneself within a developmental functionalist perspective. Individual case studies as well as group analyses of six children in the early phases of acquiring English grammar are provided. In the last part Budwig examines the relationship between forms and functions in development with special attention to potential generalizations about the organization and reorganization of the children's linguistic systems.

Shakespeare, Milton and Eighteenth-Century Literary Editing Marcus Walsh, 2004-07-05 Study of the theories and methods informing editions of Milton and Shakespeare in the eighteenth century

Text W. S. Hillis, Edward Burns, Peter Shillingsburg, 1999-10-31 Another volume in the distinguished annual Following the Textual Revolution Tymon Adamczewski, 2016-10-31 Analysis of literature and culture abounds in modern scholarship customarily written in the familiar language of literary theory. Though the terminology today seems more or less straightforward this was not always the case. The propositions for a new and active understanding of text put forward in the 1960s by theorists like Roland Barthes and Jacques Derrida profoundly influenced contemporary critical thought and were unnerving to many. This book examines how a divergent school of literary and cultural studies created French Theory appropriated its ideas about text and textuality and altered the landscape of debate in mainstream academic discourse. The author traces the standardization of a once rebellious poststructuralism and presents contemporary critical thinking that questions the assumptions of Theory.

Chinese Theories of Reading and Writing Ming Dong Gu, 2012-02-01 This ambitious work provides a systematic study of Chinese theories of reading and writing in intellectual thought and critical practice. The author maintains that there are two major hermeneutic traditions in Chinese literature the politico moralistic mainstream and the metaphysico aesthetical undercurrent. In exploring the interaction between the two Ming Dong Gu finds a movement toward interpretive openness. In this the Chinese practice anticipates modern and Western theories of interpretation especially literary openness and open poetics. Classic Chinese works are examined including the Zhouyi the I Ching or Book of Changes the Shijing the Book of Songs or Book of Poetry and selected poetry along with the philosophical background of the hermeneutic theories. Ultimately Gu relates the Chinese practices of reading to Western hermeneutics offering a cross cultural conceptual model for the comparative study of reading and writing in general.
