That Terrible Halloween Night:

That Terrible Halloween Night James Stevenson, 1980 Grandpa tells Louie and Mary Ann of the dreadful Halloween night that turned him into an old man That Terrible Halloween Night, After the Story's Over Linda K. Garrity, 1991 Educational resource for teachers parents and kids Coyote Nights Debra Elaine Medina, 2019-08-28 Matt Shaw trudged into his future job marriage homeownership expensive acquisitions In spite of his growing indifference it seemed too late to turn back Then Hannah crashed his Halloween party and before long nothing else mattered Go on Matt said leaning back trying to act relaxed as if he'd heard a couple hundred how I became a vampire stories It seems like there's fog in the row of trees at the back of the cemetery Like a fog has come up suddenly It's hardly ever foggy in Albuquerque so I was surprised Wondering if things could get any creepier Hannah's knee was bouncing steadily Then I thought did I see movement I looked up from the grave toward that row of trees and I think there's someone there like I could see a face for a second but then maybe it was just a swirl in the fog I can't quite make it out I better go I said it out loud and my voice startled me It seemed loud It made my heart jump But I keep standing there and I know there's someone in those trees but I just can't quite see it and I'm afraid to move Maybe if I stand still it won't notice me It will get darker and the fog will get thicker and who or whatever is there won't be able to see me and then I can get out of there I can run maybe if I don't trip over something A grave or something somebody's flowers These thoughts are racing through my mind but my body feels heavy and slow Hannah took a drink of her beer Matt felt as if she had forgotten his presence Her face was serene almost smiling I sort of stopped thinking then just stood there My hair felt damp my face was cold When I forced myself to focus on where I was I saw the face again from the corner of my eye Much closer now maybe fifty feet away I mean I didn't really see it like I see you now but there was this impression Something really horrible zeroing in on me the mouth was too big and the eyes were glittering with dark circles all the way around them Something sneaking The skin looked yellowy white against the gray white of the fog It had cloaked itself with this fog so it could get close and then pounce on me like some huge spider I lost the image whenever I tried to focus on it but I knew it was there I knew I was in trouble Then maybe twenty feet then maybe fifteen then I could see the hands and arms reaching and it was on me It got its hands on me and I don't think I ever even moved Didn't turn to run just stood there like a deer in headlights It was ugly and it stunk but it said sweet and comforting things Even the pain when it bit me took place in the middle of all these kind encouraging words and thoughts it put into my head I think I was convinced this monster had my best interests at heart A to Zoo Rebecca L.
