battle between Mehmet II sultan of the Ottoman Empire and Constantine XI the 57th emperor of Byzantium illuminates the period in history that was a precursor to the current conflict between the West and the Middle East For a thousand years Constantinople was quite simply the city fabulously wealthy imperial intimidating and Christian Singlehandedly it blunted early Arab enthusiasm for Holy War when a second wave of Islamic warriors swept out of the Asian steppes in the Middle Ages Constantinople was the ultimate prize The Red Apple It was a city that had always lived under threat On average it had survived a siege every forty years for a millennium until the Ottoman Sultan Mehmet II twenty one years old and hungry for glory rode up to the walls in April 1453 with a huge army numberless as the stars 1453 is the taut vivid story of this final struggle for the city told largely through the accounts of eyewitnesses For fifty five days a tiny group of defenders defied the huge Ottoman army in a seesawing contest fought on land at sea and underground During the course of events the largest cannon ever built was directed against the world s most formidable defensive system Ottoman ships were hauled overland into the Golden Horn and the morale of defenders was crucially undermined by unnerving portents At the center is the contest between two inspirational leaders Mehmed II and Constantine XI fighting for empire and religious faith and an astonishing finale in a few short hours on May 29 1453 a defining moment for medieval history 1453 is both a gripping work of narrative history and an account of the war between Christendom and Islam that still has echoes in the modern world

Godfrey,2012-12-06 Few reference works in philosophy have articles on hope Few also are systematic or large scale philosophical studies of hope Hope is admitted to be important in people s lives but as a topic for study hope has largely been left to psychologists and theologians For the most part philosophers treat hope en passant My aim is to outline a general theory of hope to explore its structure forms goals reasonableness and implications and to trace the implications of such a theory for atheism or theism What has been written is quite disparate Some see hope in an individualistic often existential way and some in a social and political way Hope is proposed by some as essentially atheistic and by others as incomprehensible outside of one or another kind of theism Is it possible to think consistently and at the same time comprehensively about the phenomenon of human hoping Or is it several phenomena How could there be such diverse understandings of so central a human experience On what rational basis could people differ over whether hope is linked to God What I offer here is a systematic analysis but one worked out in dialogue with Ernst Bloch Immanuel Kant and Gabriel Marcel Ernst Bloch of course was a Marxist and officially an atheist Gabriel Marcel a Christian theist and Immanuel Kant was a theist but not in a conventional way
