GRANDE RIVIERE HYDROELECTRIC COMPLEX - ENVIRONMENTAL CHALLENGE. QUEBEC. SOCIETE D'ENERGIE DE LA BAIE JAMES.,1988 Canadiana ,1989 Mercury in the Biogeochemical Cycle Marc Marcotte,Roger Schetagne,Normand Therien,Claude Langlois,Alain Tremblay,2012-12-06 Nowadays major environmental issues are the object of large public debates despite the fact that scientific knowledge is often insufficient to draw unequivocal conclusions Such is the case in the ongoing debate regarding the specific contributions of anthropogenic greenhouse gas emissions and of natural climate changes to global warming At least 10 to 20 years of additional observations will be required before we will be able to conclude with certainty on this subject In the mean time and as directed by their immediate interests people will continue to promote contradictory opinions The media are in part responsible for perpetuating such debates in that they convey indiscriminately the opinion of highly credible scientists as that of dogmatic researchers the latter unfortunately too often expressing working hypotheses as established facts Naturally in a similarly misinformed manner pressure groups tend to support the researcher whose opinions most closely represent either their particular ideological battles or their economic interests and hence in their own way add further to the confusion and obscurity of the debate Only a few years ago mercury Hg contamination in hydroelectric reservoirs was the object of such media and social biases At the time analytical data used to support the discourse were themselves uncertain and numerous hypotheses often times fanciful were proposed and hastily delivered to the public Social and Environmental Impacts of the James Bay Hydroelectric Project James F.

Hornig,1999 Planning and construction of the James Bay Hydroelectric project began in the early 1970s when the effect of such projects on the physical and social environment was seldom considered As the project matured however its unique and diverse environmental impacts came under intense scrutiny on both sides of the border The first mega scale hydro project to be built in the sub Arctic capable of generating as much electricity as fifteen nuclear power plants its impact includes disruption of vast areas in an extremely fragile ecosystem as well as displacement of native peoples and the introduction of dangerous levels of mercury into their food supply The debate over these complex environmental issues has been further complicated by political issues stemming from the importance of the project to the economic development of Quebec and the sale of at least ten percent of the electricity generated the United States The contributors examine core issues of the controversy both in relation to James Bay and to other large hydroelectric projects such as the Aswan dam in Egypt and the Three Gorges dam in China Providing insights from an unusual variety of disciplines the authors offer important considerations that must be taken into account as Quebec assesses additional phases of hydroelectric development of the watershed east of Hudson Bay Contributors include Raymond B Coppinger Hampshire College Bill Dale Roebuck Dartmouth Medical School Will Ryan Hampshire College Adrian Tanner Memorial University Stanley L Warner Hampshire College Kessler E Woodward University of Alaska and Oran R Young Dartmouth College James F Hornig is professor emeritus of chemistry and environmental studies Dartmouth College An Environmental History of Canada Laurel Sefton MacDowell,2012-07-31 Throughout history most people have associated northern North America with wilderness with abundant fish and game snow capped mountains and endless forest and prairie Canada s contemporary picture gallery however contains more disturbing images deforested mountains empty fisheries and melting ice caps Adopting both a chronological and thematic approach Laurel MacDowell examines human interactions with the land and the origins of our current environmental crisis from first peoples to the Kyoto Protocol This richly illustrated exploration of the past from an environmental perspective will change the way Canadians and others around the world think about and look at Canada

Environmental Technology and Economics Claire Soares,1999 There is no shortage of books about ISO14000 and what it contains What is needed is a guidebook that will show practicing engineers in industry how to implement systems that will achieve manufacturing and business efficiency and environmental compliance at the same time This book will meet that goal in the most straightforward and forthright way What is provided here is a guide to the actual technology at the disposal of plant designers specifiers engineers and managers that will give them the answers to the questions that other sources simply do not address Case Studies in Environmental Science Larry Underwood,1998 Case Studies in Environmental Science is designed to promote grassroots awareness of global environmental issues through problem solving analysis and verbal and written discussion of topics that pertain to seven regions of the United States and Canada The twelve case studies present a range of views on selected environmental issues in a non biased approach Thought provoking questions commentaries and readings have been included to stimulate students to investigate the issues in further detail beyond the presentation of each case study The accompanying website provides the students with the tools and resources to go beyond the confines of the book and their geographic region Updated monthly the site will provide up to date links to resources and articles for each case in each region Summaries of significant events in each region and for each issue will be provided with additional Critical Thinking questions designed to demonstrate the interrelationships between regions and issues Potential Sedimentological Impacts of Hydro-electric Developments in James Bay and Hudson Bay Bruno D'Anglejan,North Wind Information Services,1994
