Social Influences And Socialization In Infancy:

Social Influences and Socialization in Infancy S. Feinman, Michael Lewis, 2013-06-29 How are we to understand the complex forces that shape human behavior A variety of diverse perspectives drawing on studies of human behavioral ontogeny as well as humanity's evolutionary heritage seem to provide the best likelihood of success It is in an attempt to synthesize such potentially disparate approaches to human development into an integrated whole that we undertake this series on the genesis of behavior In many respects the incredible burgeoning of research in child development over the last two decades or so seems like a thousand lines of inquiry spreading outward in an incoherent starburst of effort The need exists to provide on an ongoing basis an arena of discourse within which the threads of continuity among those diverse lines of research on human development can be woven into a fabric of meaning and understanding Scientists scholars and those who attempt to translate their efforts into the practical realities of the care and guidance of infants and children are the audience that we seek to reach Each requires the opportunity to see to the degree that our knowledge in given areas permits various aspects of development in a coherent integrated fashion It is hoped that this series which brings together research on infant biology developing infant capacities animal models and impact of social cultural and familial forces on development and the distorted products of such forces under certain circumstances serves these important social and scientific needs Stress and Coping in Infancy and Childhood Tiffany M. Field, Philip McCabe, Neil

The Behavior of Human Infants Alberto Oliverio,Michele Zappella,2013-03-09 The present workshop started with various requests on behalf of several participants some of us suggested the desirability of having only a free discussion leaving papers aside others would have preferred to stick to papers though enlarging the discussion of each of them to more general topics Further intermediate positions were also present From these different proposals came the hypothesis that a common frame or red line to all of our discussions on behavioural development would be to see what could be done by an interexchange of differing but converging disciplines in favour of children and in particular of children with psychic handicaps in terms of preven tion and cure At the end of three days of prolonged meetings where each paper was given and extensively discussed one feels that a number of referral points have emerged On the one side the plas ticity of behaviour on the other is reciprocity between mother and child father and child and perhaps we should add between mother and father The third point which perhaps has been only partially covered concerns the relationship between these two variables i e in terms of treatment of a child the potential plasticity of his behaviour can be used to his great advantage if it is related to the historical common needs of the reciprocal relationship for example between the child and his parents

Relationships Between Parenting and Children's Ego-control Adam Merrill Kremen, 1995 Parental Care in Mammals David J. Gubernick, 2013-11-11 The editors of this volume have honored me by their invitation to write its Fore word an invitation extended because of my editing a book on the maternal behavior of mammals in 1963 Much as I would like to think that I had opened a new area of study and so played some part in the appearance of this fine new collection of chapters the facts are quite otherwise That in 1963 I could assemble the efforts of many distinguished investigators shows that the topic had already engaged their attention and had for some years past But even then the topic had origins extending much farther into the past to mention only Wiesner and Sheard's book Maternal Behavior in the Rat of 1933 Nevertheless in 1963 it seemed to me that the study of maternal care in mammals had lagged behind the study of other kinds of social behavior The present volume does much to establish parental care of the young as a topic central to an understanding of the relation between ontogeny and phylogeny to the development of the young to the social organization of the species and to its preservation It may now be seen not only as interesting but as a most significant pattern of behavior among mammals
