Chinese Social Policy in a Time of Transition Douglas Besharov, Karen Baehler, 2013-05-17 The story of China's spectacular economic growth is well known. Less well known is the country's equally dramatic though not always equally successful social policy transition. Between the mid 1990s and mid 2000s the focal period for this book China's central government went a long way toward consolidating the social policy framework that had gradually emerged in piecemeal fashion during the initial phases of economic liberalization. Major policy decisions during the focal period included adopting a single national pension plan for urban areas, standardizing unemployment insurance, re-establishing nationwide rural health care coverage, opening urban education systems to children of rural migrants, introducing trilingual education policies in ethnic minority regions, expanding college enrolment, addressing the challenge of HIV/AIDS more comprehensively and equalizing social welfare spending across provinces among others. Unresolved is the direction of policy in the face of longer term industrial and demographic trends and the possibility of a chronically weak global economy. Chinese Social Policy in a Time of Transition offers scholars, practitioners, students and policymakers a foundation from which to explore those issues based on a composite snapshot of Chinese social policy at its point of greatest maturation prior to the 2007 global crisis.

Pensions in Development Roger Charlton, Roddy McKinnon, 2018-03-29 This title was first published in 2001. Challenging conventional approaches to the delivery of sustainable social protection to the elderly in developing countries, DCs and assessing their implications, this work discusses the appropriateness of the public management of funded systems in DCs with relatively large formal sectors. The combination of social assistance approaches to social protection for the elderly facilitates the formation of an original, unbiased pensions in development approach. Arguing for expeditious implementation of non-contributory tax or aid-financed universal old age pensions provision in all DCs and advocating industry flexibility and inclusivity the book provides a treatment of a growing issue in worldwide development
