Forest Resource Management and Mathematical Modeling. FORMATH Vol. 7 , Public and Private in Natural Resource Governance Thomas Sikor,2013 This volume develops the rich conceptual and empirical content of public private relationships increasingly acknowledged as the dominant realm of natural resource governance Ten wonderful studies from around the world illuminate opportunities for advancing the theory analysis and effective formation of sustainable systems of resource use The book is excellent for courses in governance and public policy in any resource and environmental field

JEFF ROMM PROFESSOR FOR RESOURCE POLICY UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA AT BERKELEY US

The book addresses the theoretically and politically most important division of social organization into public and private The authors bring an exciting multidisciplinary perspective to bear on changing and multiple publics and the strength of relationships connecting these two spheres in rural development and natural resource governance The contributions range from consumer health and food safety soil science forestry and water management to sociological and economic aspects of natural resource property and governance

FRANZ VON BENDA BECKMANN MAX PLANCK INSTITUTE FOR SOCIAL ANTHROPOLOGY GERMANY

Natural resources have historically been considered as being governed in public or private spheres that is by the state on behalf of the people or by companies or individuals driven by the market This dichotomy between private and public is now recognized as overly simplistic and it is clear that publics and privates operate at a range of levels and with differing degrees of separation or overlap Bringing together a group of internationally respected researchers this book provides a new perspective on prominent issues in resource governance including the state NGOs civil society communities participation devolution privatization and hybrid institutions highlighting the three dimensional nature of relations between public and private It builds on empirical analyses from six fields of natural resource governance agri environment biodiversity bioenergy food quality and safety forestry and rural water and employs a comparative approach that goes beyond the specificities of individual policy fields recognizing shared elements and allowing for a greater understanding of the dynamics underlying governance processes Introductions to the volume and to each section summarize the key debates and highlight linkages between chapters This is essential reading for academics students and policy experts in natural resource governance development and environmental policy

Sustainable Forest Management Julio J. Diez, Beatriz Martín-García, 2012-04-11 The concept of forest sustainability dates from centuries ago although the understanding of sustainable forest management SFM as an instrument that harmonizes ecological and socio economic concerns is relatively new The change in perspective occurred at the beginning of the 1990s in response to an increased awareness of the deterioration of the environment in particular of the alarming loss of forest resources The book collects original case studies from 12 different countries in four continents Africa America Asia and Europe These studies represent a wide variation of experiences from developing and developed countries and should clarify the current status of SFM worldwide and the problems associated with its implementation Geography and Environment: Regional issues Prithvish Nag,Virendra Kumar Kumra,Jagadish Singh,1997 Contributed articles Community Forestry in Western Indian Himalaya Nagendra Prasad Todaria,Dhanpal Singh Chauhan,2025-03-03 The Van Panchayat in Uttarakhand India is a unique community forest management system the only one incorporated into the Indian Forest Act of 1927 Originating from local resistance against British colonial control of forest resources in the early 19th century this system has evolved over the last 93 years The book offers a comprehensive view of the Van Panchayat Institution covering the British colonial policies on forest control and the subsequent developments It compiles all published work on Van Panchayat making it the first book dedicated to this system The chapters explore various aspects like forestry policy management environment ecology economics and social and institutional dimensions providing a holistic understanding of the subject Forests People and Power Piers Blaikie,2013 With tens of millions of hectares and hundreds of millions of lives in the balance the debate over who should control South Asia s forests is of tremendous political significance This book provides an insightful and thorough assessment of important forest management transitions currently underway MARK POFFENBERGER EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF COMMUNITY FORESTRY INTERNATIONAL The contributions in this volume not only breathe life into the field of writing and analysis related to forests they do so on the strength of extraordinarily insightful research Kudos to Springate Baginski and Blaikie for providing us with a set of thoroughly researched provocative studies that should be required reading not only for those interested in community forestry in south Asia but in resource governance anywhere ARUN AGRAWAL ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF NATURAL RESOURCES it challenges our assumptions of the benefits of participatory forest management and the role of forestry in poverty reduction It should be of interest to policy makers and to all those who have been involved with the struggle of transforming forestry over the decades DR MARY HOBLEY HOBLEY SHIELDS ASSOCIATES NATURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT AND PLANNING CONSULTANCY A rare combination of extensive field study social science insights and policy studies will be of immense value DR N C SAXENA MEMBER OF NATIONAL ADVISORY COUNCIL GOVERNMENT OF INDIA In recent decades participatory approaches to forest management have been introduced around the world This book assesses their implementation in the highly politicized environments of India and Nepal The authors critically examine the policy implementation processes and causal factors affecting livelihood impacts Considering narratives and field practice with data from over 60 study villages and over 1000 household interviews the book demonstrates why particular field outcomes have occurred and why policy reform often proves

so difficult Research findings on which the book is based are already influencing policy in India and Nepal and the research and analysis have great relevance to forestry management in a wide range of countries Published with DFID Wildlife and Protected Area Management Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1997 Kalyana Mitra: Volume 10

F. Ros-Tonen, Heleen Van Den Hombergh, E. B. Zoomers, 2007 This book assembles experiences acquired with sustainable forest and tree resource management partnerships in various Latin American countries It addresses the question of which conditions are necessary for partnerships to stimulate sustainable socially just and pro poor governance of forest resources Forest Tenure Reform in Asia and Africa Randall Bluffstone, Elizabeth J.Z. Robinson, 2014-11-13 Forest tenure reforms are occurring in many developing countries around the world These reforms typically include devolution of forest lands to local people and communities which has attracted a great deal of attention and interest. While the nature and level of devolution vary by country, all have potentially important implications for resource allocation, local ecosystem services, livelihoods, and climate change. This book helps students, researchers, and professionals to understand the importance and implications of these reforms for local environmental quality, climate change, and the livelihoods of villagers who are often poor. It is shown that local forest management can often be more successful than top-down management of common pool forest resources. The relationship of local forest tenure reform to the important climate change initiative REDD is also considered. The work includes a number of generic chapters and also detailed case studies from China, Ethiopia, Kenya, Nepal, Tanzania, and Uganda. Using specific examples and a wide variety of disciplinary perspectives, including quantitative and qualitative analytical methods, the book provides an authoritative and critical picture of local forest reforms in light of the key challenges humanity faces today.

Our Forest, Your Ecosystem, Their Timber Nicholas K. Menzies, 2007. Community-based forest management (CBFM) is a model of forest management in which a community takes part in decision making and implementation and monitoring of activities affecting the natural resources around them. CBFM provides a framework for a community members to secure access to the products and services that flow from the landscape in which they live and has become an essential component of any comprehensive approach to forest management. In this volume, Nicholas K. Menzies looks at communities in China, Zanzibar, Brazil, and India where, despite differences in landscape, climate, politics, and culture, common challenges and themes arise in making a transition from forest management by government agencies to CBFM. The stories of these four distinct places highlight the difficulties communities face when trying to manage their forests and negotiate partnerships with others interested in forest management, such as the commercial forest sector or conservation and environmental organizations. These issues are then considered against a growing body of research concerning what constitutes successful CBFM. Drawing on published and unpublished case studies, project reports, and his own rich experience, Menzies analyzes how CBFM fits into the broader picture of the management of natural resources, highlighting the conditions that bring about effective practices and the most just and equitable stewardship of resources. A critical companion for students, researchers, and practitioners, Our Forest, Your Ecosystem, Their Timber provides a singular resource on the emergence and evolution of CBFM.

Communities and Forest Management in Western Europe Sally Jeanrenaud, 2001. Fourth in the series, this profile explores the diverse and changing nature of Community Involvement in Forest Management (CIFM) in Western Europe. It provides some comparative European-level data on important social institutions which shape patterns of community involvement in forestry and it briefly examines different national contexts. Through 12 case studies, this publication discusses some of the main economic, social, ecological, and policy opportunities and challenges of CIFM in Europe and outlines the principal lessons learned according to three key groups of actors: governments, NGOs, and local communities. The profile also proposes some recommendations for policy and action in Europe.

The Decentralization of Forest Governance Moira Moeliono, 2012. This book provides an excellent overview of more than a decade of transformation in a forest landscape where the interests of local people extractive industries and globally important biodiversity are in conflict The studies assembled here teach us that plans and strategies are fine but in the real world of the forest frontier conservation must be based upon negotiation social learning and an ability to muddle through Jeffrey Sayer senior scientific adviser Forest Conservation Programme IUCN International Union for of Nature The devolution of control over the world s forests from national or state and provincial level governments to local control is an ongoing global trend that deeply affects all aspects of forest management conservation of biodiversity control over resources wealth distribution and livelihoods This powerful new book from leading experts provides an in depth account of how trends towards increased local governance are shifting control over natural resource management from the state to local societies and the implications of this control for social justice and the environment The book is based on ten years of work by a team of researchers in Malinau Indonesian Borneo one of the world s richest forest areas The first part of the book sets the larger context of decentralization s impact on power struggles between the state and society The authors then cover in detail how the devolution process has occurred in Malinau the policy context struggles and conflicts and how Malinau has organized itself The third part of the book looks at the broader issues of property relations conflict local governance and political participation associated with decentralization in Malinau Importantly it draws out the salient points for other international contexts including the important determination that local political alliances especially among ethnic minorities are taking on greater prominence and creating new opportunities to influence forest policy in the world s richest forests from the ground up This is top level research for academics and professionals working on forestry natural resource management policy and resource economics worldwide Published with CIFOR
