The Learning Wars:

Learning War Trent Hone, 2018 Learning War describes the evolution of the U S Navy's tactical doctrine in the first half of the twentieth century from the end of the Spanish American War through the end of World War II

Learning War Trent Hone, 2018-06-15 Learning War examines the U S Navy's doctrinal development from 1898-1945 and explains why the Navy in that era was so successful as an organization at fostering innovation. A revolutionary study of one of history's greatest success stories, this book draws profoundly important conclusions that give new insight not only into how the Navy succeeded in becoming the best naval force in the world but also into how modern organizations can exploit today's rapid technological and social changes in their pursuit of success. Trent Hone argues that the Navy created a sophisticated learning system in the early years of the twentieth century that led to repeated innovations in the development of surface warfare tactics and doctrine. The conditions that allowed these innovations to emerge are analyzed through a consideration of the Navy as a complex adaptive system. Learning War is the first major work to apply this complex learning approach to military history. This approach permits a richer understanding of the mechanisms that enable human organizations to evolve, innovate, and learn, and it offers new insights into the history of the United States Navy.

The War on Learning Elizabeth Losh, 2024-02-06 An examination of technology-based education initiatives from MOOCs to virtual worlds that argues against treating education as a product rather than a process. Behind the lectern stands the professor deploying course management systems, online quizzes, wireless clickers, PowerPoint slides, podcasts, and plagiarism detection software. In the seats are the students armed with smartphones, laptops, tablets, music players, and social networking. Although these two forces seem poised to do battle with each other, they are really both taking part in a war on learning itself. In this book, Elizabeth Losh examines current efforts to reform higher education by applying technological solutions to problems in teaching and learning. She finds that many of these initiatives fail because they treat education as a product rather than a process. Highly touted schemes, video games for the classroom, for example, or the distribution of iPads let students down because they promote consumption rather than intellectual development. Losh analyzes recent trends in postsecondary education and the rhetoric around them, often drawing on first-person accounts. In an effort to identify educational technologies that might actually work, she looks at strategies including MOOCs, massive open online courses, the gamification of subject matter, remix pedagogy, video lectures from Randy Pausch to the Baked Professor, and educational virtual worlds. Finally, Losh outlines six basic principles of digital learning and describes several successful university-based initiatives. Her book will be essential reading for campus decision makers and for anyone who cares about education and technology.

The Effects of Wars Pierre Bocquillon, Suzanne Doyle, Toby S. James, Ra Mason, Soul Park, Matilde Rosina, 2024-12-09 War has been an ever-present feature of human existence. The analysis of wars has tended to focus on either their causes or the military and strategic consequences of a conflict. This book argues that war can have a much wider impact across layers of society that go beyond international boundaries It presents a heuristic multi disciplinary framework for analysing the ripple and backwash effects across five connected analytical layers around the world material human capabilities economic values belief and attitudes policy and governance and power Through this framework the book introduces a set of empirically rich and theoretically informed studies which examine the first consequences of the war in Ukraine following the invasion of Russia in February 2022 This multi disciplinary approach shows that the effects of the war were much deeper and sustained This volume will be of interest to students and scholars of international humanitarian law security studies peace and conflict studies and European history The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Policy Studies

The Learning Advantage D. Christopher Kayes, Anna Kayes, 2011-05-17 Highlighting the best in management learning theory and practices the authors provide a comprehensive approach to leadership from a learning perspective This exciting new book from award winning authorities on learning describes how leaders gain the advantage when they cultivate learning in themselves and others

Women, War, Violence and Learning Shahrzad Mojab, 2013-09-13 This anthology provides fresh theorization of gendered dimensions of learning war and violence with a view to offering new insights on the impact of violence on women s learning and well being The collection is an important contribution to emerging interdisciplinary approaches to the role and effectiveness of civil society especially women s NGOs working in war and post conflict zones and to the relationship between neoliberal global feminist projects and the re emergence of colonial and imperial feminisms This collection is also an exploration of the plausibility of current peace education strategies augmenting the political and leadership role of women and their civic engagement This collection is designed to create a space for conversation across disciplines on such issues as how to advance our conceptualization of gender related education and conflict how to provide empirically based case studies and transnational analyses that improves our understanding of the impact of war and violence on women s learning and how to contribute to national and international policy analyses to improve education for women and girls through related policy reforms or humanitarian aid programs in post war reconstruction efforts This book was published as a special issue in the International Journal of Lifelong Education
