Sermons Preached at Brighton Frederick William Robertson,2019-12-02 In Sermons Preached at Brighton Frederick William Robertson presents a series of eloquent sermons that delve into the complexities of faith morality and the human condition Employing a literary style marked by deep insight and emotional resonance Robertson captures the essence of Victorian religious thought while challenging conventional interpretations Each sermon is a reflection on Scriptural texts interweaving personal anecdotes and vivid rhetoric that elevate the discourse beyond mere theology into an exploration of spirituality and ethical living resonating with an audience seeking a profound understanding of their faith Robertson a notable figure in the 19th century Anglican Church was renowned for his innovative approach to preaching that emphasized a personal experiential understanding of faith His tenure at Brighton where he preached to diverse congregations provided him with a rich backdrop for these sermons Influenced by the intellectual currents of his time including Romanticism and liberal theology Robertson sought to make Christianity relevant in an age of skepticism advocating for a compassionate and inclusive faith This collection is essential reading for those interested in the evolution of religious thought and the role of the sermon in shaping public discourse Robertson s ability to articulate the struggles and joys of faith not only makes his work timeless but also invites readers to reflect deeply on their own spiritual journeys The Science of Discourse Arnold Tompkins,1897 Sermons, Preached Ay Trinity Chapel, Brighon Robertson,1861 A Discourse in Behalf of the

American Home Missionary Society William T. Dwight,2022-10-24 Reprint of the original first published in 1859 Platonic theology Marsilio Ficino,2001 Wilhelm Dilthey: Selected Works, Volume III Wilhelm Dilthey,2021-07-13 This volume provides Dilthey s most mature and best formulation of his Critique of Historical Reason It begins with three Studies Toward the Foundation of the Human Sciences in which Dilthey refashions Husserlian concepts to describe the basic structures of consciousness relevant to historical understanding The volume next presents the major 1910 work The Formation of the Historical World in the Human Sciences Here Dilthey considers the degree to which carriers of history individuals cultures institutions and communities can be articulated as productive systems capable of generating value and meaning and of realizing purposes Hegel s idea of objective spirit is reconceived in a more empirical form to designate the medium of commonality in which historical beings are immersed Any universal claims about history need to be framed within the specific productive systems analyzed by the various human sciences Dilthey s drafts for the Continuation of the Formation contain extensive discussions of the categories most important for our knowledge of historical life meaning value purpose time and development He also examines the contributions of autobiography to historical understanding and of biography to scientific history The finest summary of Dilthey s views on hermeneutics can be found in The Understanding of Other Persons and Their Manifestations of Life Here Dilthey differentiates understanding relative to three kinds of manifestations of life After giving his analysis of elementary understanding he examines the role of induction in higher understanding and interpretation and the relevance of transposition and re experiencing for grasping individuality
