Valiani, Salimah,2018-12-28 The future of mining in South Africa is hotly contested Wide ranging views from multiple quarters rarely seem to intersect placing emphasis on different questions without engaging in holistic debate This book aims to catalyse change by gathering together fragmented views into unifying conversations It highlights the importance of debating the future of mining in South Africa and for reaching consensus in other countries across the mineral dependent globe It covers issues such as the potential of platinum to spur industrialisation land and dispossession on the platinum belt the roles of the state and capital in mineral development mining in the era of the Fourth Industrial Revolution the experiences of women in and affected by mining since the late 19th century and mine worker organising history and lessons and how post mine rehabilitation can be tackled It was inspired not only by an appreciation of South Africa s extensive mineral endowments but also by a realisation that while the South African mining industry performs relatively well on many technical indicators its management of broader social issues leaves much to be desired It needs to be deliberated whether the mining industry can play as critical a role going forward as it did in the evolution of the country s economy

Gender Inequalities in Africa's Mining Policies Francis Onditi, 2022-04-17 This book develops a discursive equalitarian theoretical framework for studying African mining ecosystem issues and policy interventions The theory of equalitarianism is developed as an alternative to the reductionist approach that has dominated post colonial debates about the classical jus ad bellum requirements to empower women in development spaces However the classical approach narrows the debate down to women issues rather than the whole of society As a consequence of this reductionism women continue to be devalued in the mining sector characterized by poverty traps power struggles and a lack of capacity to engage in large scale mining LSM activities This book advances principles for a holistic approach and spells out the implications for women across the mining value chain Drawing on moral scholarship the book poses that for women to gain access to strategic spaces in the mining sector the drive for empowerment must be embedded within whole of society principles This book is of interest to scholars researching gender policy public policy political philosophy conflictology and human geography It also offers practitioners a guide for evaluating their policy work on mainstreaming gender in the mining sector presenting options for financing forging partnership and planning for an inclusive economic development in Africa and beyond

Contemporary Customary Land Issues in Africa J. Oloka-Onyango,Bridget Bwalya Umar,2018-07-26 This book examines current trends in customary land issues in Africa focusing on the practice of converting customary land into leasehold tenure particularly in Zambia Since the enactment of the 1995 Lands Act No 29 in Zambia conversion of customary land has become a controversial policy raising questions about the future of customary land and rural communities and the role of traditional authorities in a changing environment Alienating customary land into leasehold tenure has serious implications for local and national politics and gender dynamics Analysis of these trends suggests that the policy of creating land markets on customary land is subjecting customary systems to the forces of change However governments that have adopted this policy

have not by and large adopted measures to respond to these challenges Although customary tenure is widely believed to be resilient it is not clear how the customary system will navigate the current winds of change Chapters in this book draw from the Land Use and Rural Livelihoods in Africa Project LURLAP a collaborative research project undertaken by staff and students at the University of Cape Town and the University of Zambia
