Saeed, 2019-07-02 This collection uses a transnational approach to study contemporary English language poetry composed by poets of South Asian origin The poetry contains themes motifs and critiques of social changes and the contributors seek to encapsulate the continually changing environments that these contemporary poets write about The contributors show that English language poetry in South Asia is hybridized with imagery and figurative language adapted from the vernacular languages of South Asia The chapters examine women's issues concerns of marginalized groups such as the Dalit community and the people of Northeastern India social changes in Sri Lanka the changing society of Pakistan and the formation of the identity in the several nation states that resulted from the British colony of India Sing, Slivered Tongue Feroza

Jussawalla, 2025-05-26 As an eyewitness to Partition violence I am happy to endorse this collection of trauma poems edited by Lopamudra Basu and Feroza Jussawalla Women speaking on trauma need to be given voice recognition and exposure Bapsi Sidhwa author of Cracking India I was deeply moved by this wonderful collection of diasporic women's voices writing from the depths of their hearts expressing truth and pain but also resolution and triumph An inspiring and authentic anthology well worth the reader's time and attention Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni author of Palace of Illusions and The Last Queen Sing

Slivered Tongue is a chorus of women's voices from the South Asian diaspora that speaks to the traumatic and triumphant realities of worlds severed, shattered and somehow still surviving. This collection is an impressive contribution to the ancient traditions of women poets whose words inform not only our view of the world but ourselves and each other through time and place. Kao Kalia Yang, Author of Where Rivers Part and What God is Honored Here. This important collection is a correction of the often forcible gendered and cultural silencing of women's voices; the poets included recast known stories, honor victims of violence and of history itself and share their own embodied traumas, locating strength and resilience in the intergenerational act of survival. Through ruptures and fragments, metaphors and renaming, the poems gathered in Sing Slivered Tongue make palpable the ways trauma, pain and loss hold power to disrupt one's very sense of self but also show the ways in which poetry can shine light into those fissures and create a new kind of wholeness that is simultaneously scarred and beautiful.

Ann E. Wallace, PhD 2023/2024 Poet Laureate of Jersey City, NJ, author of Days of Grace and Silence: A Chronicle of COVID's Long Haul, Kelsay Books 2024. Trauma, particularly that of women, has typically been relegated to silence and oblivion. Sing Slivered Tongue is a collection of poetry by women from South Asia writing on trauma. The title of the volume is a reference to the ancient legend of Khona, a wise woman whose tongue was severed by her envious father-in-law. The volume gathers together the voices and experiences of sixty-eight women from various South Asian communities in an attempt to explore the subject of trauma through a gendered lens. Lopamudra Basu and Feroza Jussawalla, the volume's editors, ensure that the preconceived notion of silence around women's trauma is subverted even as the verses they bring together explore the enduring sensations and experiences of trauma, loss and grief from across South Asia.

The Changing World of Contemporary South Asian Poetry in English Mitali P. Wong, M. Yousuf Saeed, 2019-07-02. This collection uses a transnational approach to study contemporary English language poetry composed by poets of South Asian origin. The poetry contains themes, motifs and critiques of social changes and the contributors seek to encapsulate the continually changing environments that these contemporary poets write about. The contributors show that English language poetry in South Asia is hybridized with imagery and figurative language adapted from the vernacular languages of South Asia. The chapters examine women's issues, concerns of marginalized groups such as the Dalit community and the people of Northeastern India, social changes in Sri Lanka, the changing society of Pakistan and the formation of the identity in the several nation states that resulted from the British colony of India.

Thali Katori Bashabi Fraser, Alan Riach, 2017-09-30. Thali Katori brings together two words that celebrate difference, acknowledge the need for the sensitive appreciation of difference, the virtues of complementarity and the nourishment that poetry and the arts, as vitally as savoury and sweet dishes, dal and other vegetables, gives us to keep us alive, to refuse in Hugh MacDiarmid's phrase a life deprived of its salt. Thali Katori is a feast of many flavours. Thali literally means a plate on which a selection of many dishes is served. Katori signifies the bowls which accompany the thali. Together the dishes are all different but they complement each other, bringing out each other's flavours.

Women's Writing Shilpa Daithota Bhat, 2018-03-14 This anthology of essays deliberates chiefly on the notion of locating home through the lens of the mythical idea of Trishanku implying in between space and homing in diaspora women's narratives associated with the South Asian region The idea of in between space has been used differently in various cultures but gesture prominently on the connotation of hanging between worlds Historically imperialism and the indentured grimit system triggered dispersal of labourers to the various colonies of the British Of course this was not the only cause of international migratory processes The partition of India and Pakistan led to large scale migration There was Punjabi migration to Canada Several Indians particularly the Gujaratis travelled to Africa for business reasons South Indians travelled to the Gulf for employment There were migrations to East Asian countries under the kangani system Again these were not the only reasons The process of demographic movement from South Asia has been complex due to innumerable push pull factors The subsequent generations of migrants included the twice thrice and likewise displaced members of the diaspora Racial denigration and Orientalist perceptions plagued their lives They belonged to various ethnicities and races inhabited marginalized spaces and strived to acculturate in the host society Complete cultural assimilation was not possible creating layered and hyphenated identities These intricate social processes resulted in amalgamation and cross pollination of cultures inter racial relationships and hybridization in all terrains of culture language music fashion cuisine and so on Situating in this matrix was the notion of Home a special personal space which an individual could feel as belonging to very strongly Nostalgia loss of home culture shock and interracial encounters problematized this discernment of belongingness and home These multifarious themes have been captured by women writers from the South Asian region and this book looks at the various aspects related to negotiating home in their narratives
