Making It Modern: Essays on the Art of the Now Linda Nochlin, 2022-03-08 A selection of key essays on art from the nineteenth century to the present day by one of the most influential voices in art history This illustrated collection of essays brings together some of art historian Linda Nochlin's most important writings on modernism and modernity from across her six decade career Before the publication of her seminal essay on feminism in art Why Have There Been No Great Women Artists she had already firmly established herself as a major practitioner of a politically sophisticated and class conscious social art history Nochlin was part of an important cohort of scholars writing on modernity determined to rethink the narratives of the subject under the pressure of contemporary events such as student uprisings the women's liberation movement and the Vietnam War with the help of politically engaged literary criticism that was emerging at the same time Nochlin embraced Charles Baudelaire's conviction that modernity is meant to be of one's time and that the role of an art historian was to understand the art of the past not only in its own historical context but according to the urgencies of the contemporary world From academic debates about the nude in the eighteenth century to the work of Robert Gober in the twenty first whatever she turned her analytic eye to was conceived as the art of the now Including seven previously unpublished pieces this collection highlights the breadth and diversity of Nochlin's output across the decades including discussions on colonialism fashion and sex

Public Art (Now) Claire Doherty, 2015-03-09 Public Art Now Out of Time Out of Place is the first survey of progressive public art from around the world It presents some of the most significant artworks in the public realm from the last decade challenging preconceptions about where when and how public art takes place The face of public art is changing For decades art in the public realm has been characterized by the landmark sculpture or spectacular outdoor event that helps to define or brand a place But in recent years a new wave of international artists and producers has rejected the monumental scale and mass appeal of such artworks Instead these individuals and groups favour unconventional forms that unsettle rather than authenticate a place's identity disrupt rather than embellish a particular location and contest rather than validate the design and function of public space Performed interactions collaborative social movements and small scale subversive acts are just some of the unorthodox approaches taken by these artists Their works challenge preconceived ideas about the role of art in place making as they seek to remake places through radical forms and practices Public Art Now Out of Time Out of Place presents the artists who have been redefining the practice of public art over the past decade They directly address the most pressing issues of our time including the encroachment of corporate concerns on public space the implications of global migration and the isolation of the individual and the potential of collective action to share the future of our towns and cities Some forty key works from around the world are organized into five sections Displacement Intervention Disorientation Occupation and Perpetuation with detailed descriptions and dozens of installation and process shots Interviews and quotes from practitioners commissioners and commentators reveal the impetus and context for the projects while the editor's introduction sets out the conceptual practical and ethical issues raised by the works Bringing together the most significant artworks in the public realm of the last ten years from ephemeral interventions to long term ongoing projects this dynamic survey is an essential reference for anyone interested in the ideas issues and impulses behind progressive public art and an accessible introduction to one of the most vibrant areas of contemporary art

What Does 'Art' Mean Now? Bruce Fleming, 2023-06-22 What Does Art Mean Now asks and answers fundamental questions about the nature of aesthetic experience and role of the arts in contemporary society The Modern Age Romanticism and beyond viewed art as something transcending and separated from life and usually something encountered in museums or classrooms Nowadays however art tends to be defined not by a commonly agreed upon standard of quality or by its forms such as painting and sculpture but instead by political and ideological criteria So how do we connect with the works in museums whose point was precisely that they stood apart from such considerations Can we and should we be educated to appreciate art and what does it do for us anyway What are we to make of the so different newer works installations performances excerpts from the world held to be art that increasingly make it into museums Adopting a subjectivist approach this book argues that in the absence of a universal judgment or standard of taste the experience of art is one of freedom The arts give us the means to conceptualize our lives showing us ourselves as we are and as we might wish or not wish to be as well as where we have been and where we are going It will appeal to scholars of sociology philosophy museum studies and art history and to anyone interested in or puzzled by museums or college courses and their presentation of art today

Energy Law and the Environment Patricia Park, 2002-02-07 The area of law concerning energy and the environment is a dynamic one. Decisions are constantly being made at all levels from international summits to local courts of law which then filter down and affect law makers, law students and ultimately members of the public. Energy Law and the Environment is the first book to consider the interrelationship between energy law and the legal environmental imperatives for the industrial sector including current issues and future developments. This is not a book solely for academics; it has been written to be accessible to both lawyers and non lawyers alike. The importance of the subject matter and its place in the context of the sustainable development of the energy sector which underpins all economic development should make it essential reading for both those working in the energy sectors and those concerned with the effects that the sector has on the global environment. It can also be used as a text for courses at undergraduate and graduate level on both energy law and environmental law.

The Charter of the United Nations, 2024-07-04. Since the third edition of this commentary on the Charter of the United Nations was published in 2012, the text of the Charter has not changed. But the world has. Central pillars of the international order enshrined in the UN Charter are facing serious challenges, notably the prohibition of the use of force. Human rights too have come under increasing pressure, now also from contemporary information technology. Global warming poses fundamental challenges for the world community as a whole in its effort to stabilize global ecosystems. Fully updated, the commentary takes up these and other developments. It features new chapters on Climate Change and the Human Rights Council. The commentary remains the authoritative article by article account of the legislative history, interpretation and practical application of each and every Charter provision. Written by a team of distinguished scholars and practitioners, this book combines academic research with the insights of practice. It is an indispensable tool of reference for all those interested in the United Nations and its legal significance for the world community. The Commentary will be crucial in combining solid legal foundations with new directions for the development of international law and the United Nations in the twenty first century.

Images of Excellence Christopher Janaway, 1995-05-25 Plato was the first great figure in Western philosophy to assess the value of the arts he famously argued in the Republic that traditionally accepted forms of poetry drama and music are unsound claiming they are conducive to warped ethical standards detrimental to the psyche and purveyors of illusions about important matters in human life This view has been widely rejected but Christopher Janaway here argues that Plato's hostile case is a more coherent and profound challenge to the arts than has sometimes been supposed Denying that Plato advocates good art in any modern sense Dr Janaway seeks both to understand Plato's critique in the context of his own philosophy and to locate him in today's philosophy of art showing how issues in aesthetics arise from responses to his charges Plato's questions about beauty emotion representation ethical knowledge artistic autonomy and censorship are of contemporary relevance as formerly secure assumptions about the value of art and the aesthetic come under scrutiny Images of Excellence gives a new and original view of a famous issue in the history of philosophy it is written not only for readers working in ancient philosophy but for all who are interested in aesthetics art theory and literary theory
