long period of modernist aesthetic detachment made a unique contribution to the re politicization of art Screendance Douglas Rosenberg,2012-07-05 The practice of dance and the technologies of representation has excited artists since the and performance and artists The book should also be of interest to the growing number of theater and art historians who research the beginnings and development of action and performance art Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1999

Hollywood's African American Films Ryan Jay Friedman,2011 In 1929 and 1930 during the Hollywood studios conversion to synchronized sound film production white controlled trade magazines and African American newspapers celebrated a vogue for Negro films Hollywood s African American Films argues that the movie business turned to black musical performance to both resolve technological and aesthetic problems introduced by the medium of talking pictures and at the same time to appeal to the white Broadway audience that patronized their most lucrative first run theaters Capitalizing on highbrow associations with white slumming in African American cabarets and on the cultural linkage between popular black musical styles and natural acoustics studios produced a series of African American cast and white cast films featuring African American sequences Ryan Jay Friedman asserts that these transitional films reflect contradictions within prevailing racial ideologies arising most clearly in the movies treatment of African American characters decisions to migrate Regardless of how the films represent these choices they all prompt elaborate visual and narrative structures of containment that tend to highlight rather than suppress historical tensions surrounding African American social mobility Jim Crow codes and white exploitation of black labor

Towards a Film Theory from Below Jiri Anger, 2024-05-30 Operating between film theory media philosophy archival practice and audiovisual research Jiri Anger focuses on the relationship between figuration and materiality in early films experimental found footage cinema and video essays Would it be possible to do film theory from below through the perspective of moving image objects of their multifarious details and facets however marginal unintentional or aleatory they might be Could we treat scratches stains and shakes in archival footage as speculatively and aesthetically generative features Do these material actors have the capacity to create weird shapes within the figurative image that decenter distort and transform the existing conceptual and methodological frameworks Building on his theoretical as well as practical experience with the recently digitized corpus of the first Czech films created by Jan Kr eneck between 1898 and 1911 the author demonstrates how technological defects and accidents in archival films shape their aesthetic function and our understanding of the materiality of film in the digital age The specific clashes between the figurative and material spheres are understood through the concept of a crack up This term developed by Francis Scott Fitzgerald and theoretically reimaged by Gilles Deleuze allows us to capture the convoluted relationship between figuration and materiality as inherent to the medium of film containing negativity and productivity difference and simultaneity contingency and fate at the same time even within the tiniest cinematic units
