The Society of friends in the nineteenth century, 2 vols William Hodgson (of Philadelphia.),1875     Treitschke's History of Germany in the Nineteenth Century Heinrich von Treitschke,1917     Creative Spirits of the Nineteenth Century Georg Brandes,1923     The Society of Friends in the Nineteenth Century William Hodgson,1875     The Nine-Tenths James Oppenheim,2018-05-23 Reproduction of the original The Nine Tenths by James Oppenheim     The Works of John Ruskin: The storm-cloud of the nineteenth century. On the old road. Arrows of the Chace. Ruskinana John Ruskin,1908     History and Historians in the Nineteenth Century George Peabody Gooch,1920     Journals of Senate and Assembly, of the Nineteenth Session Anonymous,2023-03-18 Reprint of the original first published in 1872 The publishing house Anatiposi publishes historical books as reprints Due to their age these books may have missing pages or inferior quality Our aim is to preserve these books and make them available to the public so that they do not get lost     The Last Years of the Nineteenth Century Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer,1901     Women Writing Art History in the Nineteenth Century Hilary Fraser,2014-09-04 This book sets out to correct received accounts of the emergence of art history as a masculine field It investigates the importance of female writers from Anna Jameson Elizabeth Eastlake and George Eliot to Alice Meynell Vernon Lee and Michael Field in developing a discourse of art notable for its complexity and cultural power its increasing professionalism and reach and its integration with other discourses of modernity Proposing a more flexible and inclusive model of what constitutes art historical writing including fiction poetry and travel literature this book offers a radically revisionist account of the genealogy of a discipline and a profession It shows how women experienced forms of professional exclusion that whilst detrimental to their careers could be aesthetically formative how working from the margins of established institutional structures gave women the freedom to be audaciously experimental in their writing about art in ways that resonate with modern readers     The Nineteenth Century ,1896     France in the Nineteenth Century, 1830-1890 Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer,1893     American Tariff Controversies in the Nineteenth Century Edward Stanwood,1903     The Industrial and Commercial Revolutions in Great Britain During the Nineteenth Century Lilian Charlotte Anne Knowles,1921     The Nineteenth Century and After ,1903     A System of Logic: Ratiocinative and Inductive (Complete) John Stuart Mill,1911 It is so much the established practice of writers on logic to commence their treatises by a few general observations in most cases it is true rather meagre on Terms and their varieties that it will perhaps scarcely be required from me in merely following the common usage to be as particular in assigning my reasons as it is usually expected that those should be who deviate from it The practice indeed is recommended by considerations far too obvious to require a formal justification Logic is a portion of the Art of Thinking Language is evidently and by the admission of all philosophers one of the principal instruments or helps of thought and any imperfection in the instrument or in the mode of employing it is confessedly liable still more than in almost any other art to confuse and impede the process and destroy all ground of confidence in the result For a mind not previously versed in the meaning and right use of the various kinds of words to attempt the study of methods of philosophizing would be as if some one should attempt to become an astronomical observer having never learned to adjust the focal distance of his optical instruments so as to see distinctly Since Reasoning or Inference the principal subject of logic is an operation which usually takes place by means of words and in complicated cases can take place in no other way those who have not a thorough insight into the signification and purposes of words will be under chances amounting almost to certainty of reasoning or inferring incorrectly And logicians have generally felt that unless in the very first stage they removed this source of error unless they taught their pupil to put away the glasses which distort the object and to use those which are adapted to his purpose in such a manner as to assist not perplex his vision he would not be in a condition to practise the remaining part of their discipline with any prospect of advantage Therefore it is that an inquiry into language so far as is needful to guard against the errors to which it gives rise has at all times been deemed a necessary preliminary to the study of logic But there is another reason of a still more fundamental nature why the import of words should be the earliest subject of the logician's consideration because without it he cannot examine into the import of Propositions Now this is a subject which stands on the very threshold of the science of logic The object of logic as defined in the Introductory Chapter is to ascertain how we come by that portion of our knowledge much the greatest portion which is not intuitive and by what criterion we can in matters not self evident distinguish between things proved and things not proved between what is worthy and what is unworthy of belief Of the various questions which present themselves to our inquiring faculties some receive an answer from direct consciousness others if resolved at all can only be resolved by means of evidence Logic is concerned with these last But before inquiring into the mode of resolving questions it is necessary to inquire what are those which offer themselves what questions are conceivable what inquiries are there to which mankind have either obtained or been able to imagine it possible that they should obtain an answer This point is best ascertained by a survey and analysis of Propositions
