Capturing the Landscape of New Spain Rebecca A. Carte, 2015-10-22 The son of an encomendero Baltasar Obreg n was twenty years old when he joined the 1564 expedition led by the first governor of Nueva Vizcaya Francisco de Ibarra The purpose of the expedition was to establish mining settlements in the borderlands of New Spain and to suppress indigenous rebellions in the region Although Obreg n s role in the Ibarra expedition was that of soldier explorer and despite his lacking an advanced education he would go on to compose Historia de los descubrimientos de Nueva España a twenty years later expanding his narrative to include the years before and after his own firsthand experiences with Ibarra Obregón depicts the storied landscape of the northern borderlands with vivid imagery fusing setting and situation constructing a new reality of what was is and should be and presenting it as truth In Capturing the Landscape of New Spain Rebecca A. Carte explains how landscape performs a primary role in Obregón's retelling emerging at times as protagonist and others as antagonist Carte argues that Obregón's textualization offers one of the first renderings of the region through the Occidental cultural lens offering insight into Spanish cultural perceptions of landscape during a period of important social and political shifts By examining mapping and landscape discourse Carte shows how history and geography past and present people and land come together to fashion the landscape of northern New Spain
