Cordell,Joel W. Gregory,1994 This is a synthesis of case studies and theory which takes issue with established African demographic theory emphasising that demography is an historical process a permanent and varied adaptation to social and economic change The book covers 20 African societies in the sub Saharan region examining not the effects of slavery colonialism and capitalism on each but also the resistance and resilience of indigenous African institutions and individuals Paths in the Rainforests Jan M. Vansina,1990-10-22 Vansina s scope is breathtaking he reconstructs the history of the forest lands that cover all or part of southern Cameroon Gabon Equatorial Guinea the Congo Zaire the Central African Republic and Cabinda in Angola discussing the original settlement of the forest by the western Bantu the periods of expansion and innovation in agriculture the development of metallurgy the rise and fall of political forms and of power the coming of Atlantic trade and colonialism and the conquest of the rainforests by colonial powers and the destruction of a way of life In 400 elegantly brilliant pages Vansina lays out five millennia of history for nearly 200 distinguishable regions of the forest of equatorial Africa around a new subtly paradoxical interpretation of tradition Joseph Miller University of Virginia Vansina gives extended coverage to the broad features of culture and the major lines of historical development across the region between 3000 B C and A D 1000 It is truly an outstanding effort readable subtle and integrative in its interpretations and comprehensive in scope It is a seminal study but it is also a substantive history that will long retain its usefulness Christopher Ehret American

From Slaving to Neoslavery I. K. Sundiata, 1996 Fernando Po home to the Bantu speaking Bubi people has an unusually complex history Long touted as the key to West Africa

it is the largest West African island and the last to enter the world economy Confronted by both African resistance and ecological barriers early British and Spanish imperialism foundered there Not until the late nineteenth century did foreign settlement take hold abetted by a class of westernized black planters It was only then that Fernando Po developed a plantation economy dependent on migrant labor working under conditions similar to slavery In From Slaving to Neoslavery Ibrahim K Sundiata offers a comprehensive history of Fernando Po explains the continuities between slavery and free contract labor and challenges standard notions of labor development and progress in various colonial contexts Sundiata's work is interdisciplinary considering the influences of the environment disease slavery abolition and indigenous state formation in determining the interaction of African peoples with colonialism From Slaving to Neoslavery has manifold implications Historians usually depict the nineteenth century as the period in which free labor triumphed over slavery but Sundiata challenges this notion By examining the history of Fernando Po he illuminates the larger debate about slavery current among scholars of Africa

Cultures of Confinement Frank Dikötter, Ian Brown, 2018-07-05 Prisons are on the increase from the United States to China as ever larger proportions of humanity find themselves behind bars While prisons now span the world we know little about their history in global perspective Rather than interpreting the prison's proliferation as the predictable result of globalization Cultures of Confinement underlines the fact that the prison was never simply imposed by colonial powers or copied by elites eager to emulate the West but was reinvented and transformed by a host of local factors its success being dependent on its very flexibility Complex cultural negotiations took place in encounters between different parts of the world and rather than assigning a passive role to Latin America Asia and Africa the authors of this book point out the acts of resistance or appropriation that altered the social practices associated with confinement The prison in short was understood in culturally specific ways and reinvented in a variety of local contexts examined here for the first time in global perspective

From Slave Trade to 'Legitimate' Commerce Robin Law, 2002-08-08 This edited collection written by eleven leading specialists examines the nineteenth century commercial transition in West Africa the ending of the Atlantic slave trade and the development of alternative forms of legitimate trade mainly in vegetable products Approaching the subject from an African rather than a European or American perspective the case studies consider the effects of transition on the African societies involved They offer significant insights into the history of pre colonial Africa and the slave trade the origins of European imperialism and longer term issues of economic development in Africa

Africa and Africans in the Making of the Atlantic World, 1400-1800 John Thornton, 1998-04-28 This book explores Africa's involvement in the Atlantic world from the fifteenth century to the eighteenth century It focuses especially on the causes and consequences of the slave trade in Africa in Europe and in the New World African institutions political events and economic structures shaped Africa's voluntary involvement in the Atlantic arena before 1680 Africa's economic and military strength gave African elites the capacity to determine how trade with Europe developed Thornton examines the dynamics of colonization which made slaves so necessary to European colonizers and he explains why African slaves were placed in roles of central significance. Estate structure and demography affected the capacity of slaves to form a self-sustaining society and behave as cultural actors transferring and transforming African culture in the New World. Africa and the Africans in the Nineteenth Century: A Turbulent History Catherine Coquery-Vidrovitch, Mary Baker, 2015-02-12. Most histories seek to understand modern Africa as a troubled outcome of nineteenth-century European colonialism but that is only a small part of the story. In this celebrated book beautifully translated from the French edition the history of Africa in the nineteenth century unfolds from the perspective of Africans themselves rather than the European powers. It was above all a time of tremendous internal change on the African continent. Great jihads of Muslim conquest and conversion swept over West Africa. In the interior warlords competed to control the internal slave trade. In the east the sultanate of Zanzibar extended its reach via coastal and interior trade routes. In the north Egypt began to modernize while Algeria was colonized. In the south a series of forced migrations accelerated spurred by the progression of white settlement. Through much of the century African societies assimilated and adapted to the changes generated by these diverse forces. In the end the West's technological advantage prevailed and most of Africa fell under European control and lost its independence. Yet only by taking into account the rich complexity of this tumultuous past can we fully understand modern Africa from the colonial period to independence and the difficulties of today.

The Third Portuguese Empire, 1825-1975 W. G. Clarence-Smith, 1985, From Africa to Jamaica Audra Diptee, 2010-07-18. Rich with historical sketches of the life and experiences of slaves in Africa on slave ships and in Jamaica this volume illustrates the way enslaved Africans lived and helped to shape Jamaican society in the three decades before British abolition of the slave trade. Audra Diptee's in-depth investigations reveal unexpected insights into the demographics of those captured in Africa and legally transported on British slave ships. For example, there is a commonly held belief that slave traders had a preference for adult males. In fact the practicalities of slave raiding meant that women, children, and large groups of the elderly were particularly vulnerable during raids and were more often captured and made available for sale in the Caribbean. From Africa to Jamaica offers a new look at the Atlantic slave trade in its final years, fleshing out the historical portrait of the African men, women, and children who were sold in Jamaica and were thus among the last of the enslaved to put their stamp on Jamaican society. There is no comparable study that takes such a comprehensive approach, looking at both the African and Jamaican sides of the trade system. Africa from the Sixteenth to the Eighteenth Century Unesco. International Scientific Committee for the Drafting of a General History of Africa, 1999. Red Gold of Africa Eugenia W. Researched with a depth of scholarship that will leave future historians green with envy. The Political Economy of Everyday Life in Africa Wale Adebani, 2017.
