The Georgian London Town House Kate Retford,Susanna Avery-Quash,2019-03-07 For every great country house of the Georgian period there was usually also a town house Chatsworth for example the home of the Devonshires has officially been recognised as one of the country s favourite national treasures but most of its visitors know little of Devonshire House which the family once owned in the capital In part this is because town houses were often leased rather than being passed down through generations as country estates were But most crucially many London town houses including Devonshire House no longer exist having been demolished in the early twentieth century This book seeks to place centre stage the hugely important yet hitherto overlooked town houses of the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries exploring the prime position they once occupied in the lives of families and the nation as a whole It explores the owners how they furnished and used these properties and how their houses were judged by the various types of visitor who gained access

The Art of the Project Johnnie Gratton,Michael Sheringham,2005 The idea of the project crosses generic disciplinary and cultural frontiers At a time when writers and artists are increasingly describing their practices as projects remarkably little critical attention has been paid to the actual idea of the project This collection of essays responds to an urgent need by suggesting a framework for evaluating the notion of the project in the light of various modernist and postmodernist cultural practices drawn mainly but not exclusively from the French speaking domain The overview offered by this volume promises to makes an original and thought provoking contribution to contemporary literary artistic and cultural criticism

History of the Ceramic Art Albert Jacquemart, 1873 The Arts A.M. Buckley, 2011-01-01. This title examines the positions of artist, dancer, photographer, and curator. The duties and responsibilities of the professional in each of these occupations are examined. Through profiles of artist Dane Picard, dancer Elaine Wang, photographer Heather Cantrell, and curator Julie Joyce, readers will get the sense of an artist's life. Readers will learn about daily life in the arts, average salaries, and educational requirements and steps to securing one of these positions. Readers will learn what characteristics and interests make for a successful career in the arts and a short self-evaluation analyses the prospective artist's potential for success in the field. Also included are evaluations of each profession's potential market and how to find work. Inside the Industry is a series in Essential Library, an imprint of ABDO Publishing Company.

The Art of Medieval French Romance Douglas Kelly, 1992-04-01. Douglas Kelly provides a comprehensive and historically valid analysis of the art of medieval French romance as the romancers themselves describe it. He focuses on well-known writers such as Chrétien de Troyes and Marie de France and also draws on a wide range of other sources: prose romances, non-Arthurian romances, thirteenth-century verse romances, and variant versions from the later Middle Ages. Kelly is the first scholar to present the art of medieval romance to a modern audience through the interventions and comments of medieval writers themselves. The book begins by examining the difficulties scholars perceive in medieval literature problems such as source and intertextuality, structure in its manifold modern meanings, and character psychology and individuality. These issues frame Kelly's identification and discussion of all the known authorial interventions on the art and craft of romance. Kelly's careful reconstruction of the art of romance based on the records left by the romancers themselves will be an invaluable resource and guide for all medievalists.
