CRISPIN SARTWELL

Six Names of Beauty

Beauty may be in the eye of the beholder, but it's also in the language we use and everywhere in the world around us. In this elegant, witty, and ultimately profound meditation on what is beautiful, Crispin Sartwell begins with six words from six different cultures — ancient Greek's "to kalon," the Japanese idea of "wabi-sabi," Hebrew's "yapha," the Navajo concept "hocho," Sanskrit's "sundara," and our own English-language "beauty."

Each word becomes a door onto another way of thinking about, and looking at, what is beautiful in the world, and in our lives. The earthy and the exalted, the imperfect and the ideal: things, spaces, high art, sounds, aromas, nothingness. Sartwell writes about scores of beautiful things—among them, a Japanese teapot and Diana Rigg as Mrs. Emma Peel, the pleasure in a well-used hammer and in pop music and in Vermeer's Girl in a Red Hat.

In Sartwell's hands these six names of beauty—and there could be thousands more—are revealed as simple and profound ideas about our world and our selves.

Beyond Beauty Federico Vercellone, 2017-07-31 The American abstract expressionist painter Barnett Newman famously declared in 1948 that the impulse of modern art is to destroy beauty Not long after that Andy Warhol was reconciling the world of art with the world of everyday life painting soup cans and soda bottles In this book Federico Vercellone provides an account of the decline of beauty as a Platonic ideal from early German Romanticism to the twentieth century He traces this intellectual trajectory from Goethe Dilthey and Nietzsche through modernism and the avant garde movement to the work of Adorno and Heidegger Rather than the death or destruction of beauty Vercellone argues instead that beauty in the twentieth century came back to live in reality and everyday life He suggests this is a new edition of the classical ideal rather than an abandonment of it and further makes the case for the ecological significance of this orientation and outlook
