Living Sacrifice Luo Fu,2020-05-12 The dead sacrificed the living died the human heart was wicked the dogs did not eat Wu Lei wholeheartedly wanted to save her but who would ve thought that the person he saved wasn t a living person at all Those who save others are not necessarily good people and those who are saved are not necessarily living people Within the five li of fog it was hard to tell who was the real evil ghost and who was the living corpse The main character exerted a lot of effort and racked his brains But who would have thought that in the end he was just a tool a sacrificial offering Wu Lei wanted to live and he had been terrified while he was fleeing for his life The person he had been desperately trying to save in the past was now trying to kill him with his life

Thinking of Water in the Early Second Temple Period Ehud Ben Zvi, Christoph Levin, 2014-10-14 Water is a vital resource and is widely acknowledged as such. Thus it often serves as an ideological and linguistic symbol that stands for and evokes concepts central within a community. This volume explores thinking of water and concepts expressed through references to water within the symbolic system of the late Persian early Hellenistic period and as it does so it sheds light on the social mindscape of the early Second Temple community.

The Age of Resilience Jeremy Rifkin, 2022-11-01 A sweeping new interpretation of the history of civilization and a transformative vision of how our species will thrive on an unpredictable Earth. The viruses keep coming, the climate is warming, and the Earth is rewilding. Our human family has no playbook to address the mayhem unfolding around us. If there is a change to reckon with, argues the renowned economic and social theorist Jeremy Rifkin, it is that we are beginning to realize that the human race never had dominion over the Earth and that nature is far more formidable than we thought while our species seems much smaller and less significant in the bigger picture of life on Earth, undermining our long cherished worldview. The Age of Progress, once considered sacrosanct, is on a deathwatch while a powerful new narrative, the Age of Resilience, is ascending. In The Age of Resilience, Rifkin takes us on a new journey, beginning with how we reconceptualize time and navigate space. During the Age of Progress, efficiency was the gold standard for organizing time, locking our species into the quest to optimize the expropriation, commodification, and consumption of the Earth's bounty at ever greater speeds and in ever shrinking time intervals with the objective of increasing the opulence of human society but at the expense of the depletion of nature. Space, observes Rifkin, became synonymous with passive natural resources while a principal role of government and the economy was to manage nature as property. This long adherence to temporal/spatial orientation, writes Rifkin, has taken humanity to the commanding heights as the dominant species on Earth and to the ruin of the natural world. In the emerging era, says Rifkin, efficiency is giving way to adaptivity as the all-encompassing temporal value while space is perceived as animated, self-organizing, and fluid. A younger generation, in turn, is pivoting from growth to flourishing, finance capital to ecological capital, productivity to regenerativity, Gross Domestic Product to Quality of Life Indicators, hyper-consumption to eco-stewardship, globalization to glocalization, geopolitics to biosphere politics, nation-state sovereignty to bioregional governance, and representative democracy to citizen assemblies and distributed peerocracy. Future generations, suggests Rifkin, will likely experience existence less as objects and structures and more as patterns and processes, and come to understand that each of us is literally an ecosystem made up of the microorganisms and elements that comprise the hydrosphere, lithosphere, atmosphere, and biosphere. The autonomous self of the Age of Progress is giving way to the ecological self of the Age of Resilience. The now worn scientific method that underwrote the Age of Progress is also falling by the wayside, making room for a new approach to science called Complex Adaptive Systems modeling. Likewise, detached reason is losing cachet while empathy and biophilia become the norm. At a moment when the human family is deeply despairing of the future, Rifkin gives us a window into a promising new world and a radically different future that can bring us back into nature's fold giving life a second chance to flourish on Earth
