TV Snapshots Lynn Spigel,2022-04-08 In TV Snapshots Lynn Spigel explores snapshots of people posing in front of their television sets in the 1950s through the early 1970s Like today s selfies TV snapshots were a popular photographic practice through which people visualized their lives in an increasingly mediated culture Drawing on her collection of over 5 000 TV snapshots Spigel shows that people did not just watch TV women used the TV set as a backdrop for fashion and glamour poses people dressed in drag in front of the screen and in pinup poses people even turned the TV setting into a space for erotic display While the television industry promoted on screen images of white nuclear families in suburban homes the snapshots depict a broad range of people across racial ethnic and class backgrounds that do not always conform to the reigning middle class nuclear family ideal Showing how the television set became a central presence in the home that exceeded its mass entertainment function Spigel highlights how TV snapshots complicate understandings of the significance of television in everyday life

Landscape and Images John R. Stilgoe,2015-02-12 John Stilgoe is just looking around This is more difficult than it sounds particularly in our mediated age when advances in both theory and technology too often seek to replace the visual evidence before our own eyes rather than complement it We are surrounded by landscapes charged with our past and yet from our earliest schooldays we are instructed not to stare out the window Someone who stops to look isn t only a rarity he or she is suspect Landscape and Images records a lifetime spent observing America s constructed landscapes Stilgoe s essays follow the eclectic trains of thought that have resulted from his observation from the postcard preference for sunsets over sunrises to the concept of teen geography to the unwillingness of Americans to walk up and down stairs In

Stilgoe's hands the subject of jack o lanterns becomes an occasion to explore centuries old concepts of boundaries and trespassing and to examine why this originally pagan symbol has persisted into our own age Even something as mundane as putting the cat out before going to bed is traced back to fears of unwatched animals and an untended frontier fireplace Stilgoe ponders the forgotten connections between politics and painted landscapes and asks why a country whose vast majority lives less than a hundred miles from a coast nonetheless looks to the rural Midwest for the classic image of itself At times breathtaking in their erudition the essays collected here are as meticulously researched as they are elegantly written Stilgoe's observations speak to specialists whether they be artists historians or environmental designers as well as to the common reader Our landscapes constitute a fascinating history of accident and intent The proof says Stilgoe is all around us

Making Scenes Iain Davidson, April Nowell, 2021-04-13 Dating back to at least 50 000 years ago rock art is one of the oldest forms of human symbolic expression Geographically it spans all the continents on Earth Scenes are common in some rock art and recent work suggests that there are some hints of expression that looks like some of the conventions of western scenic art In this unique volume examining the nature of scenes in rock art researchers examine what defines a scene what are the necessary elements of a scene and what can the evolutionary history tell us about storytelling sequential memory and cognitive evolution among ancient and living cultures Brown Skins, White Coats Projit Bihari Mukharji, 2023-02-17
