Kinship to Mastery

Stephen R. Kellert, 2003-10 Kinship to Mastery is a fascinating and accessible exploration of the notion of biophilia the idea that humans having evolved with the rest of creation possess a biologically based attraction to nature and exhibit an innate affinity for life and lifelike processes Stephen R Kellert sets forth the idea that people exhibit different expressions of biophilia in different contexts and demonstrates how our quality of life in the largest sense is dependent upon the richness of our connections with nature While the natural world provides us with material necessities food clothing medicine clean air pure water it just as importantly plays a key role in other aspects of our lives including intellectual capacity emotional bonding aesthetic attraction creativity imagination and even the recognition of a just and purposeful existence As Kellert explains each expression of biophilia shows how our physical material intellectual emotional and spiritual well being is to a great extent dependent on our relationships with the natural world that surrounds us Kinship to Mastery is a thought provoking examination of a concept that while not widely known has a significant and direct effect on the lives of people everywhere Because the full expression of biophilia is integral to our overall health our ongoing destruction of the environment could have far more serious consequences than many people think In a readable and compelling style Kellert describes and explains the concept of biophilia and demonstrates to a general audience the wide ranging implications of environmental degradation Kinship to Mastery continues the exploration of biophilia begun with Edward O Wilson s landmark book Biophilia Harvard University Press 1984 and followed by The Biophilia Hypothesis Island Press 1993 co edited by Wilson and Kellert which brought together some of the most creative scientists of our time to explore Wilson s theory in depth Why Did Ancient Civilizations Fail? Scott A J Johnson, 2016-09-19 Ideas abound as to why certain complex societies collapsed in the past including environmental change subsistence failure fluctuating social structure and lack of adaptability Why Did Ancient Civilizations Fail evaluates the current theories in this important topic and discusses why they offer only partial explanations of the failure of past civilizations This engaging book offers a new theory of collapse that of social hubris Through an examination of Mesopotamian Egyptian Roman Maya Inca and Aztec societies Johnson persuasively argues that hubris blinded many ancient peoples to evidence that would have allowed them to adapt and he further considers how this has implications for contemporary societies Comprehensive and well written this volume serves as an ideal text for undergraduate courses on ancient complex societies as well as appealing to the scholar interested in societal collapse

Striving for Excellence ,1995 Each vol a compilation of ERIC digests Ecology and Power in the Age of Empire Corey Ross, 2017-03-31 Ecology and Power in the Age of Empire provides the first wide ranging environmental history of the heyday of European imperialism from the late nineteenth century to the end of the colonial era It focuses on the ecological dimensions of the explosive growth of tropical commodity production global trade and modern resource management transformations that still visibly shape our world today and how they were related to broader social cultural and political developments in Europe s colonies Covering the overseas empires of all the major European powers Corey Ross argues that tropical environments were not merely a stage on which conquest and subjugation took place but were an essential part of the colonial project profoundly shaping the imperial enterprise even as they were shaped by it The story he tells is not only about the complexities of human experience but also about people's relationship with the ecosystems in which they were themselves embedded the soil water plants and animals that were likewise a part of Europe's empire Although it shows that imperial conquest rarely represented a sudden bout of ecological devastation it nonetheless demonstrates that modern imperialism marked a decisive and largely negative milestone for the natural environment By relating the expansion of modern empire global trade and mass consumption to the momentous ecological shifts that they entailed this book provides a historical perspective on the vital nexus of social political and environmental issues that we face in the twenty first century world

Food In Global History Raymond Grew, 2018-02-19 Social scientists study food in many different ways Historians have most often studied the history of specific foods anthropologists have emphasized the role of food in religious rituals and group identities sociologists have looked primarily at food as an indicator of social class and a factor in social ties and nutritionists have focused on changing patterns of consumption and applied medical knowledge to study the effects of diet on public health Other scholars have studied the economic and political connections surrounding commerce in food Here these perspectives are brought together in a single volume

The Oxford Handbook of Food History Jeffrey M. Pilcher, 2012-10-16 Food matters not only as a subject of study in its own right but also as a medium for conveying critical messages about capitalism the environment and social inequality to diverse audiences Recent scholarship on the subject draws from both a pathbreaking body of secondary literature and an inexhaustible wealth of primary sources from ancient Chinese philosophical tracts to McDonald's menus contributing new perspectives to the historical study of food culture and society and challenging the limits of history itself The Oxford Handbook of Food History places existing works in historiographical context crossing disciplinary chronological and geographic boundaries while also suggesting new routes for future research The twenty seven essays in this book are organized into five sections historiography disciplinary approaches production circulation and consumption of food The first two sections examine the foundations of food history not only in relation to key developments in the discipline of history itself such as the French Annales school and the cultural turn but also in anthropology sociology geography pedagogy and the emerging Critical Nutrition Studies The following three sections sketch various trajectories of food as it travels from farm to table factory to eatery nature to society Each section balances material cultural and intellectual concerns whether juxtaposing questions of agriculture and the environment with the notion of cookbooks as historical documents early human migrations with modern culinary tourism or religious customs with social activism In its vast interdisciplinary scope this handbook brings students and scholars an authoritative guide to a field with fresh insights into one of the most fundamental human concerns

The Dawn of Agriculture and the Earliest States in Genesis 1-11 Natan Levy, 2023-11-29 This book invites a close textual encounter with the first 11 chapters of Genesis as an intimate drama of marginalised peoples wrestling with the rise of the world's first grain states in the Mesopotamian alluvium The initial 11 chapters of Genesis are often considered discordant and fragmentary despite being a story of beginnings within the context of the Bible Readers discover how these formative chapters cohere as a cross generational account of peoples grappling with the hegemonic spread of domesticated grain production and the concomitant rise of the pristine states of Mesopotamia The book reveals how key episodes from the Genesis narrative reflect major societal revolutions of the Neolithic period in Mesopotamia through a three fold hermeneutical method literary analysis of the Bible and contemporary cuneiform texts modern scholarship from archaeological anthropological ecological and historical sources and relevant exegesis from the Second Temple and rabbinical era These three strands entwine to recount a generally sequential story of the earliest archaic states as narrated by non elites at the margins of these emerging state spaces The Dawn of Agriculture and the Earliest States in Genesis 1 11 provides a fascinating reading of the first 11 chapters of Genesis appealing to students and scholars of the Hebrew Bible and the Near East as well as those working on ecological injustice from a religious vantage point Social Science Under Debate Mario Bunge,1999-01-01 Bunge contends that social science research has fallen prey to a postmodern fascination with irrationalism and relativism He urges social scientists to re examine the philosophy and the methodology at the base of their discipline
