Social Construction Of Mind:

The Social Construction of Mind Jeff Coulter, 1987-09-29 This book provides an original and provocative combination of ethnomethodological analysis and the concepts of linguistic philosophy with a breadth and clarity unusual in this field of writing. It is designed to be read by sociologists, psychologists and philosophers and concerns itself with the contributions of Wittgenstein defending the claim for his relevance to the human sciences. However, this book goes some way beyond the usual limitations of such interdisciplinary works by outlining some empirical applications of ideas derived from the Wittgenstein tradition.

Social Constructionism Andy Lock, Tom Strong, 2010-03-25 Social Constructionism: Sources and Stirrings in Theory and Practice offers an introduction to the different theorists and schools of thought that have contributed to the development of contemporary social constructionist ideas, charting a course through the ideas that underpin the discipline. From the New Science of Vico in the 18th century through to Marxist writers, ethnomethodologists and Wittgenstein ideas as to how socio-cultural processes provide the resources that make us human are traced to the present day. Despite constructionists often being criticised as relativists, activists and anti-establishment and for making no concrete contributions, their ideas are now being adopted by practically oriented disciplines such as management consultancy, advertising, therapy, education and nursing. Andy Lock and Tom Strong aim to provoke a wider grasp of an alternative history and tradition that has developed alongside the one emphasised in traditional histories of the social sciences.

The Social Construction of Virtue George W. Noblit, Van O. Dempsey, Belmira Oliveira Bueno, 1996-09-26 Examines how schools function as agents and transmitters of moral life in communities.

An Invitation to Social Construction Kenneth J. Gergen, 1999-12-06 In An Invitation to Social Construction Kenneth Gergen charts the background to the social constructionist movement and outlines the major debates, topics and issues.

The Social Construction of Climate Change Mary E. Pettenger, 2016-02-24 Individuals, international organizations and states are calling for the world to confront climate change. Efforts such as the Kyoto Protocol have produced intractable disputes and are deemed inadequate. This volume adopts two constructivist perspectives: norm-centred and discourse to explore the social construction of climate change from a broad theoretical level to particular cases. The contributors contend that climate change must be understood from the context of social settings and that we ignore at our peril how power and knowledge structures are generated. They offer a greater understanding of why current efforts to mitigate climate change have failed and provide academics and policy makers with a new understanding of this important topic.

The Mind As a Scientific Object Christina E. Erneling, David M. Johnson, 2005-01-13 What holds together the various fields that are supposed to constitute the general intellectual discipline that people now call cognitive science? In this book, Erneling and Johnson identify two problems with defining this discipline. First, some theorists identify the common subject matter as the mind, but scientists and philosophers have not been able to agree on any single satisfactory answer to the question of what the mind is. Second, those who speculate about the general characteristics that belong to cognitive science tend to assume that all the particular fields falling under the rubric psychology linguistics biology and son on are of roughly equal value in their ability to shed light on the nature of mind This book argues that all the cognitive science disciplines are not equally able to provide answers to ontological questions about the mind but rather that only neurophysiology and cultural psychology are suited to answer these questions However since the cultural account of mind has long been ignored in favor of the neurophysiological account

Erneling and Johnson bring together contributions that focus especially on different versions of the cultural account of the mind Social Constructionism Vivien Burr,2015-04-21 Now in its third edition this successful book introduces students to the area of social science theory and research known as social constructionism Using a variety of examples from everyday experience and from existing research in areas such as personality sexuality and health it clearly explains the basic theoretical assumptions of social constructionism Key debates such as the nature and status of knowledge truth reality and the self are given in depth analysis in an accessible style Drawing on a range of empirical studies the book clearly defines the various different approaches to social constructionist research and explores the theoretical and practical issues involved While the text is broadly sympathetic to social constructionism it also adopts a critical perspective to the material addressing its weaknesses and in the final chapter subjecting the theory itself to a more extensive critique New to this edition Extended coverage of the relationship between mainstream psychology and social constructionism and how the two fields can engage with each other An exploration of the rise and popularity of neuroscience and the challenge it poses to social constructionism New material on the field of psychosocial studies Updated coverage of existing key issues such as age and sexuality and inclusion of more recently emerging issues e g status and role of affect Updated discussion of key social constructionist contributors with revised references Updated chapter on research methods including more on narrative and critical narrative analysis and personal construct methods The third edition of Social Constructionism extends and updates the material covered in previous editions and will be an invaluable and informative resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students across the social and behavioural sciences Social Constructionism in Vocational Psychology and Career Development

Peter McIlveen,Donna Schultheiss,2012-12-23 The contemporary world of work makes demands upon the field of career development and vocational psychology to ensure that theories and practices retain their relevance amidst the complexity of work and learning in people s lives Social Constructionism is the emerging paradigm that can reformulate theories and practices of career development that have come before Social Constructionism opens new perspectives and raises questions about phenomena that have captured the imagination of scholars and practitioners for a century In this fourth book in the Sense Career Development Series a host of international authors open the window of Social Constructionism to reveal the challenges that lay ahead in the next generation of research and practice This little book is ideal for the graduate scholar researcher and seriously curious practitioner who seek to understand Social Constructionism the questions it raises and how those questions may be answered Readers will be challenged to think hard review their assumptions and see the world of work and learning anew The rewards are worth the effort The Routledge Handbook of Philosophy of the Social Mind Julian Kiverstein,2016-11-18 The idea that humans are by nature social and political animals can be traced back to Aristotle More recently it has also generated great interest and controversy in related disciplines such as anthropology biology psychology neuroscience and even economics What is it about humans that enabled them to construct a social reality of unrivalled complexity Is there something distinctive about the human mind that explains how social lives are organised around conventions norms and institutions The Routledge Handbook of Philosophy of the Social Mind is an outstanding reference source to the key topics and debates in this exciting subject and is the first collection of its kind An international team of contributors present perspectives from diverse areas of research in philosophy drawing on comparative and developmental psychology evolutionary anthropology cognitive neuroscience and behavioural economics The thirty two original chapters are divided into five parts The evolution of the social mind including the social intelligence hypothesis co evolution of culture and cognition ethnic cognition and cooperation Developmental and comparative perspectives including primate and infant understanding of mind shared intentionality and moral cognition Mechanisms of the moral mind including norm compliance social emotion and implicit attitudes Naturalistic approaches to shared and collective intentionality including joint action team reasoning and group thinking and social kinds Social forms of selfhood and mindedness including moral identity empathy and shared emotion normativity and intentionality Essential reading for students and researchers in philosophy of mind and psychology The Routledge Handbook of Philosophy of the Social Mind is also suitable for those in related disciplines such as social psychology cognitive neuroscience economics and sociology Social constructionism and theology [electronic resource] Chris A. M. Hermans,2002 Practical theology starts its theological reflections from practices aims at analyzing empirically practices and is directed towards the transformation of these practices From this practice orientation there is a strong connection between practical theology and the social sciences Social constructionism is a growing theory within the social sciences This volume offers a theological and social scientific reflection on this emerging concept of social constructionism The Social Construction of What? Ian Hacking,2000-11-15 Lost in the raging debate over the validity of social construction is the question of what precisely is being constructed Facts gender quarks reality Ian Hacking s book explores an array of examples to reveal the deep issues underlying contentious accounts of reality especially regarding the status of the natural sciences Adult Learning in the Social Context Peter Jarvis,2012-04-27 This book is a logical progression from The Sociology of Adult and Continuing Education The author takes a completely new approach to the subject and puts forward a model of adult learning which is analysed in depth This model arises from the results of a research project in which adults analysed their own learning experiences International Law as Social Construct Carlo Focarelli,2012-05-24 The book distils and articulates international law as a social construct It does so by analysing its social foundations essence and roots in practical and socially workable as opposed to pure reason In addition to well known doctrines of jurisprudence and international law it draws upon psycho analytic insights into the origins and nature of law as well as philosophical social constructivism The work suggests that seeing law as a social construct is crucial to our understanding of international law and to the struggle to create better working rules The book re conceptualizes both past and new doctrines of international law as constructs namely as strategies of concomitantly de mythologizing and re mythologizing international law Key areas of international law including subjects sources hierarchy values and remedies are shown to be part of this process The social impact on international law of transnational actors and stakeholders normative fragmentation global justice legitimacy of both rules and players dynamics and hierarchization of norms compliance and implementation in municipal law is also extensively investigated Five basic values of the international community namely security humanity wealth environment and knowledge are explored by stressing their inter and intra tensions Finally the analysis is extended to the role that international courts play in the prosecution of heads of state and other transnational players who violate international law

Culture and Cognition Bradley Franks, 2011-04-05 Human culture depends on human minds for its creation meaning and exchange But minds also depend on culture for their contents and processes Past resolutions to this circularity problem have tended to give too much weight to one side and too little weight to the other In this groundbreaking and timely work Bradley Franks demonstrates how a more plausible resolution to the circularity problem emerges from reframing mind and culture and their relations in evolutionary terms He proposes an alternative evolutionary approach that draws on views of mind as embodied and situated By grounding social construction in evolution evolution of mind is intrinsically connected to culture resolving the circularity problem In developing his theory Franks provides a balanced critical assessment of modularity based and social constructionist approaches to understanding mind and culture
